K'TAKA GOVERNMENT LIFTS WEEKEND CURFEW

Night curfew to continue, order to be withdrawn if hospitalisation rises

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

HEEDING to pressure from the business sector, ruling and opposition party members, the Karnataka government on Friday lifted weekend curfew starting from January 22 (Saturday). However, the night curfew from 10 pm to 5 am will continue for all seven days. Schools can reopen across the state, except in Bengaluru. Malls, hotels and theatres can operate with only 50 per cent occupancy.

The Basavaraj Bommai government took the decision after a marathon meeting with experts, ministers and officials that stretched for nearly two-and-a-half hours. However, the no-curfew order could be rescinded if hospitalisation increases in the coming days. The chief minister appealed to the public to take all precautionary and safety measures.

Briefing the media after the meeting, Revenue Minister R Ashoka said that according to the information given by experts, Covid-positive cases are increasing, but hospitalisation has stayed below 5 per cent. "As on January 20, there were 2.93 lakh Covid-positive cases, of which 2.86 lakh are in home isolation. Across the state, 5,344 Covid-positive patients are in hospital, of which 340 are in ICU with 127 under ventilator," he added. The hospitalisation rate is between 5 and 6 per cent, while recoveries are high. On a cautionary note, he said that the number of covid cases will increase, probably by next week.

During the meeting, it was discussed that despite the weekend curfew, Covid cases did not decline and taking that as the criterion, the decision was taken to lift the curfew, he said. "The order would be withdrawn only if hospitalisation increases. The discussion centred around lives and livelihoods of people being affected," he added. P3

Uploading a negative RT-PCR report not older than 72 hours of their travel is must.

FURORE OVER PUTTING OUT FLAME

Netaji's statue at India Gate, eternal flame shifted to Nat'l War Memorial

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A grand statue of iconic freedom fighter Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose will be installed at India Gate to commemorate his 125th birth anniversary, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Friday.

"This would be a symbol of India's indebtedness to him," Modi tweeted. The statue, made of granite, will be installed under the canopy next to the India Gate. The canopy used to have a statue of King George V, which was removed in 1968.

Till the statue is completed, a 28-ft long, 6-ft wide hologram statue would be present at the spot, which the PM will unveil on Sunday. The installation of Bose's statue will be part of the year-long celebrations to mark his 125th birth anniversary, the PMO said in a statement.

While most Opposition parties welcomed the decision, the Trinamool Congress alleged it was to blunt the criticism arising from the Centre's rejection of Bengal's tableau on Bose for the Republic Day parade.

The announcement also came on a day the flame at Amar Jawan Jyoti at India Gate was merged with the immortal flame at the National War Memorial. "In a befitting military ceremony, the flame at Amar Jawan Jyoti was merged on Friday with the eternal flame at National War Memorial with full military honours," read a defence ministry statement.

Amar Jawan Jyoti was inaugurated on January 26, 1972 to commemorate India's victory over Pakistan in 1971 and as a tribute to the soldiers who laid down their lives. The 42-metre-high India Gate War Memorial Arch was built in honour of more than 80,000 soldiers who died in the First World War (1914-1918) and the Third Anglo-Afghan War (1919). India Gate was built in 1931 and remains a memorial to the soldiers from India who died in action.

The National War Memorial was inaugurated in February 2019 in honour of soldiers who have made the supreme sacrifice to defend the sovereignty and integrity of the country.

PRIYANKA CONGRESS FACE IN UP POLLS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

ENDING reticence, Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Friday pitched herself as the party's chief ministerial face in Uttar Pradesh though she was non-committal on contesting the forthcoming state elections.

Responding to a question on the party's CM candidate during the launch of the Congress Youth Manifesto for UP, she said: "Aapko kisi aur ka chehra dikh raha hai Congress party ki taraf se? To phir? Dikh tho raha hai na sab jagah mera chehra." (Can you see the face of any other Congress leader? It's mine alone that is being seen everywhere in UP).

That was a brave statement, considering the party is a marginal player in UP that is set to witness a straight fight between the BJP and the SP in most seats. She had refused to project herself as the CM face during the 2017 UP polls after which the party forced Sheila Dikshit to take up that role.

As for entering the poll fray, Priyanka parried, saying: "When it is decided, you will get to know. We haven't made a decision yet."

Minister says power tariff hike inevitable

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A power tariff hike is unavoidable as development works have to be taken up across the state, said Power Minister Sunil Kumar here on Friday.

Bescom sources said the electric supply company is seeking a tariff increase of around Rs 1.5 per unit. The Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission (KERC), which clears the tariff hike, is expected to meet in April to take a decision.

Sunil Kumar said that huge pending bills are a burden and pointed out that BWSSB, Rural Development and Panchayat Raj and other departments owe around Rs 16,0000 crore to electric supply companies.

He has apprised individual department heads and Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai about this, the minister added. He said around 1,800 vacancies in the department were filled recently.

Power generation from hydroelectric units was good this year because of good rainfall, he said.

Bengaluru city retains air quality of 2020 lockdown

Records 208 'good air' days; residential areas worse than industrial hubs

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

AN analysis of winter air pollution holds good news for Bengaluru: the city has been able to hold on to most of the air quality gains made during the lockdown in 2020. The analysis, as per Air Quality Index (AQI) categorisation, indicated that in South India, Chennai and Kochi have shown a similar trend. The Centre for Science and Environment (CSE), New Delhi, released the analysis on Friday.

For Bengaluru, the number of 'good' AQI days in 2021 stood at 208 -- just marginally lower than the 214 days recorded in 2020. Interestingly, within the city, Bapuji Nagar, mostly a residential zone, was the worst-hit with its December average recording 76 ug/m3. Peenya, despite being the industrial hub, had the least polluted air with a 36 ug/m3 monthly average for December 2021.

Avikal Somvanshi, programme manager, Urban Data Analytics Lab at CSE, observed that the cause of emission due to vehicular traffic and garbage burning domestically in areas like Bapuji Nagar, contributed to air pollution, whereas better regulation and monitoring in Peenya helped check pollution. "In fact, the AQI is worse in BTM Layout and Jayanagar than in industrial hubs," he remarked.

The analysis covers ten continuous ambient air quality monitoring stations (CAAQMS) in Bengaluru, of which data was not available for the second half of 2021 (June to December) from two stations -- City Railway Station and Sanegurava Halli.

In Karnataka, one station each in Bagalkot, Bidar, Chamarajanagar, Chikkaballapur, Chikkamagaluru, Davanagere, Gadag, Hassan, Hubballi, Kalaburagi, Kolar, Koppal, Madikeri, Mangaluru, Mysuru, Raichur, Ramanagara, Shivamogga, Udupi, Vijayapura and Yadgir have also been covered.

Gadag and Kalaburagi reported bad air days, in fact, the AQI in these cities can cross into 'very poor' category, but due to the massive amount of missing data, it is unclear how long these bad air episodes actually last, the report clarified.

During the worst weekly pollution episode in winter, Gadag registered a weekly average of 192 ug/m3 (almost five times its annual average) and Kalaburagi clocked 104 in mid-December.

As for the seasonal increase in NO2 concens, Kalaburagi registered a 5.8 times jump in monthly NO2 levels, Hubballi was 3.3 times more compared to the months of November, October and September.

There is a significant increase in the amount of surface ozone (O3) in the air as Kalaburagi (93 µg/m3) and Udupi (81 µg/m3), figured in the report.

"There is a need for urgent action across all sectors to control pollution from vehicles, industry, power plants, waste burning, construction, and solid fuel use in households in all the states to meet clean air standards throughout the year," said Anumita Roychowdhury, executive director, research and advocacy, CSE.

ROARING NUMBERS

TIGER CENSUS BEGINS TODAY FROM BANDIPUR RESERVE

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE coveted tiger census starts from January 22 with Bandipur tiger reserve, one of the prime reserves in India, being the first to hold the exercise. While Bandipur's exercise begins January 22, a day ahead of schedule, the census in the other tiger reserves -- Nagarahole, Bhadra, BRT and Kali -- will start from January 23 and be completed by February 7.

"All eyes are on tiger assessment as a healthy population has been reported from Kali Tiger Reserve, and tigers have also been reported in Koppa division. The areas outside of tiger reserves are also reporting a rise in tiger numbers. Last time, Madhya Pradesh topped because they gave more concentration to areas outside forest covers. The same is being done by Karnataka also, but this time more aggressively," Principal Chief Conservator of Forests Sanjai Mohan told TNIE.

Annual internal assessment in each tiger reserve has also shown a rise. The assessment of each census data has shown a 25 per cent - 30 per cent jump which is expected this time. They also admitted that in the last exercise, data of some beats was excluded.

This time, each beat in 51 forest divisions has been listed. In the 2018 census, Karnataka reported 524 tigers, just two short of 526 tigers in Madhya Pradesh. In 2014, Karnataka recorded 406 and 300 in 2010. Karnataka has five tiger reserves and 23 wildlife sanctuaries. Unlike previous census held in all reserves and wildlife sanctuaries at once, this time, it has been divided and left to each division to decide. The decision comes amid the pandemic, when forest department officials are not taking volunteers to most reserves and wildlife sanctuaries for the exercise.

"Camera trap assessment, which is the prime exercise of the census, had already started from March-April in tiger reserves, and from October in the other divisions. M-stripe is being used for the assessment during line transect and direct sighting survey. Each reserve and sanctuary is divided into blocks and beats. Each beat covers a grid of 2 sqkm ,which takes one and half hours to two hours to cover. So, time and schedules have been divided to ensure all areas are accurately covered," said additional PCCF, wildlife, Kumar Pushkar.

Hospitality sector cheers lifting of curfew

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE hospitality industry has welcomed the lifting of weekend curfew, and thanked Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai for giving the sector, which has been battling huge losses, a new lease of life.

"On behalf of the industry, I profusely thank Chief Minister Bommai for lifting weekend curfew in Bengaluru. The lifting of weekend curfew is a ray of hope for us, and the industry can certainly be hopeful of a balanced approach with regard to curfew in future," said Mukesh Tolani, head of National Restaurants' Association of India (NRAI), Bengaluru chapter.

The representatives of NRAI and Craft Brewers' Association of India had met the CM on Thursday and expressed the concerns of the hospitality industry with regard to weekend curfew, taxation, licensing and ease of doing business.

"We conveyed to the CM that we are fighting a grim battle for our existence, and will need an urgent policy and fiscal support from the government. The CM advised us to make more detailed and specific representations, and promised to take up the concerns of the industry on priority. He also told us that he would be happiest when businesses like ours can get back to normal operations," said Tolani.

"This is a welcome move. We hope that Covid cases in the state drop soon, and night curfew is also lifted," said Chethan Hegde of SuzyQ by 1522.

78% plan to switch from renting to owning assets

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A whopping 78 per cent of Bengalureans have now become more inclined towards asset building and property purchase as an investment option in the post-pandemic world, a study has revealed.

The study, Post 'Generation-Rent', commissioned by Godrej Housing Finance (GHF), has also revealed that 25 per cent of Bengalureans feel that purchasing a house of their own is crucial to securing their future second to job security (45 per cent).

The study also found that close to 16 per cent of those sampled made owning a house their top priority, especially as work from home had become the new normal.

The study aimed at gaining an insight into the latest trends in customer preferences and the factors that drive property purchase, asset creation and investment post-pandemic.

The findings revealed that approximately 49 per cent of Indians had reached out to housing finance companies in the past year. This new trend is seen as a boon for the financing industry, especially in the housing sector and flies in the face of the "generation-rent" phenomenon, which saw millennials across the world preferring to rent over owning assets whether that be with regard to consumer durables or housing.

"The pandemic has brought about a clear shift in preference among Indian consumers. They are gravitating towards future-proofing through long-term investments. With affordability at an all-time high, there has probably never been a better time to buy a house, which is both an important element of asset allocation and a key pillar of financial security," said Manish Shah, Managing Director & CEO, GHF.

The study also revealed that consumers now prefer digital financing methods compared to traditional ones, which, in addition to flexibility on policy, timelines and credibility form the major factors that plays an important role in their choice of a home loan provider.

PETER VIDAL

22nd January: Recently there was another flurry of excitement about the possibility of life on Mars. The question I always ask is whether the discovery of extra-terrestrial lifeforms would make any difference to the way we see ourselves. Personally, I doubt it, because we already share our own planet with so many completely different and utterly wonderful living creatures.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
It does look as if you'll be pressured to put in some overtime, perhaps because you have a lot of catching up to do. One other point though - try to choose those leisure activities which offer the greatest satisfaction, prestige and status. If you really want to excel, try something out of the ordinary.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The individuals who will be best off over the current period, could be those on holiday, putting their feet up or generally resting - preferably somewhere a long way away. At the very least, you should go for all options which offer adventure and excitement. It could also be a very timely moment to consider moral issues.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
There is a central focus in your chart today - money. On a superficial level this indicates rather interesting shopping trips, but when we look deeper, we see that the real question is how you order your various long-term priorities and how you use your resources to help others.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The only real way to enjoy yourself is to drop all prejudices, preconceptions and taboos. The moment you judge others according to preset standards, or complain if they don't come up to your expectations, you will fail to appreciate what is genuinely on offer.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The way in which others have conducted their affairs does seem to have been rather selfish. However, if you look closely, you will see that, in many cases, their actions are dominated by insecurity, and therefore require all the support and sympathy you can give them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Various important planets are aligned with regions of your chart representing self-indulgence and hard work. This is a heady combination for those of you who genuinely wish to achieve something of lasting value, combining creative flair with real experience.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You may now be contemplating a domestic upheaval, one which is bound to see people coming and going. This really is a rather auspicious period just as long as you fulfil every single one of your promises. All you need to do is see that you retain at least some hold on the levers of change.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
This is a fantastic moment for short trips, preferably to places you have never been before. There is so much to be said for making the most of your innate, and often ignored, nomadic tendencies. If you can tackle domestic matters as early as possible, you'll avoid a crisis if pressures build up later on.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You may be thinking long and hard about your next step. It might just be that certain questions are now out of perspective, and that you need to go back to first principles and start all over again. A major factor is still your changing notion of what you can and can't afford.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Your options are many and varied - and herein lies the secret of your current indecision. It's almost as if you are being faced with an embarrassment of riches, where you may choose everything - or nothing. Perhaps a friend can help until your priorities are straightened out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Your solar chart is in a rather curious state, and a veil seems to be drawn over much that it is difficult to face. Two forms of behaviour are positively indicated today. One sees you pursuing a charitable cause, the other finds you spending a little time in quiet meditation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
This could be one of the most fascinating social periods, but of course everything depends on your willingness to get out and make the vital connections. Once you show the necessary interest, everything else will follow: don't let momentary doubts hold you back.

'Focus on other dists too, positivity rate is on the rise'

Experts ask state government to collect more samples from dists for genome sequencing; 14 dists have over 20 pc positivity rate

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

ASSESSING the positivity rate of each district, experts have directed officials to shift their attention from Bengaluru to other districts, where the caseload is on the rise.

They reason that cases are fluctuating since citizens are travelling for official and family work. Markets are also open and little attention is being paid to them. The positivity rate in 14 districts is above 20 per cent, which is a worrying trend.

According to State War Room data, these districts are Udupi, Kalaburagi, Bengaluru Urban and Rural, Ballari, Chikkaballapur, Chitradurga, Kolar, Hassan, Tumakuru, Shivamogga, Mandya and Mysuru. On January 20, the positivity rate was 23.6 per cent in Bengaluru Urban, 34.45 per cent in Mysuru, 33.23 per cent in Mandya, and 31.76 per cent in Bengaluru Rural. The positivity rate on January 19 was higher: 40.54 per cent in Mandya, 33.87 per cent in Mysuru, 33.04 per cent in Tumakuru, 25.44 per cent in Bengaluru Urban and 27.03 per cent in Bengaluru Rural.

"Since different restrictions cannot be imposed in different districts, it is very important to keep a close watch on each case and undertake profiling of cases in containment zones. Government officials and experts are focusing on Bengaluru and the border districts of the state, but it is important to keep a watch on cases in each district, especially where a rising and fluctuating trend is being reported," experts said. Experts have also suggested to the government that more samples be collected from the districts for genome sequencing, as compared to Bengaluru, as they will give a bigger picture. The sample collection size should be increased, with more centres being added, as the variant has spread to more areas.

Expect high caseload in next few days, warns Sudhakar

Bengaluru: Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar on Friday said there could be a rise in cases in the next two to three days. However, hospitalisation is still low.

Sudhakar told the media that hospitalisation continues to hover around 5 per cent, and those admitted to the ICU or who are on ventilator beds, is around 0.05 per cent -- almost negligible, compared to the second wave. There is no cause for worry in the third wave, as the new variant virus is affecting only the upper respiratory tract. He added that since cases are expected to rise, doctors and officials are already on guard and the government is ensuring that all measures are in place to successfully manage the load. He added that along with rising positive cases, discharges are also increasing. It has been observed that people are getting discharged and showing signs of recovery within three or five days, compared to ten days or even a month during the second wave. This is a good sign, but an alert has been sounded to be on guard to manage the caseload, Sudhakar said.

More restrictions for international travellers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Union health ministry has issued fresh guidelines for international passengers to be in force from January 22.

As per the guidelines, all international air travellers should submit in self-declaration form factual details of their health before travel on the Air Suvidha portal, including the last 14 days' travel history.

Uploading a negative RT-PCR report not older than 72 hours of their travel is mandatory.

Air travellers are also directed to give an undertaking on the portal or to the Ministry of Civil Aviation, before their journey. Those who need test on arrival, should preferably pre-book it on the Air Suvidha portal.

Passengers arriving from high-risk countries should submit their samples on arrival and await the report at the airport before taking any connecting flights. Those who test negative must follow a strict seven-day home quarantine and undertake RT- PCR test on the eighth day.

Information regarding their health condition must be uploaded on the Air Suvidha portal along with the test report of the eighth day. For the next seven days, they must monitor their health and if found positive, their samples must be sent for genome sequencing.

The guidelines also stated that two percent of the total flight passengers should undergo post-arrival testing randomly on arrival at the airport.

The passengers of each flight shall be identified by the airlines concerned and the same quarantine rules as those arriving from high-risk countries will apply. International air travellers arriving from sea and land ports will also have to follow the same procedure for testing and quarantine.

No 'corona pass' this year, students to appear for SSLC exam: Nagesh

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Kalaburgi

PRIMARY and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh said students have to appear for SSLC exams and answer questions this year as there will be no "Corona Pass" -- a reference to students being passed without exams because of the raging Covid pandemic last year.

He told The New Indian Express that the issue was different last year as students and schools faced severe Covid-related problems throughout the 2020-21 academic year. "If we keep extending this facility, students will forget how to study and it will set a bad trend," he added.

Nagesh said that as per his information, almost all schools in the State have completed 70 per cent of the syllabus, while 30 per cent has been reduced to help students.

"Experts are of the opinion that Covid will drastically come down in the last week of February or in the first week of March, while SSLC exams will take place in the last week March to April 11. Let us see the situation at that time," he added.

On the delay in issuing appointment orders to guest teachers for high schools, he said that the orders were issued on November 1 last year. But the orders were there since the beginning of the academic year. For 2022-23, they will be issued at the beginning of the academic year, he added.

On transfer of teachers at the end of the academic year, he said that some teachers had gone to court about two to three years ago, and the court disposed of the case only a few months back. Once the order was out, teachers started asking for transfers.

"We have to respect the court order and genuine demands of teachers. Though we started the transfer process, we did not move teachers from areas where there was an acute shortage," he clarified.

The Karnataka High Court on Friday quashed criminal proceedings against Virendra Khanna, one of the accused in a drugs scandal involving celebrities, due to procedural lapses in prosecuting him

Lokayukta may move HC over prosecution nod

State Government has not taken any decision regarding several tainted officials for over five years now: Justice Vishwanatha Shetty

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

Lokayukta Justice P Vishwanatha Shetty at his office on Friday | ASHISHKRISHNA HP

THE Lokayukta, the state anti-corruption watchdog, is likely to knock on the doors of the Karnataka High Court seeking directives to the State Government to clear the proposals seeking sanction for prosecution of bureaucrats, which have been pending for over five years.

Lokayukta Justice P Vishwanatha Shetty, who is demitting office on January 27 after completing a five-year term, is seriously examining the prospect of asking the Lokayukta registry to take up the issue with the high court.

During his stint as Lokayukta, Justice Shetty tried to restore the image of the institution which had been dented due to in-house corruption before he took charge.

He initiated over 300 suo motu cases of public interest across state, which include survey of lakes and removal of encroachments, illegal sand mining and quarrying, infrastructure for schools and colleges, wages on par with prisoners to inmates of the beggars' rehabilitation centre, reforms in the central jail, irregularities in payment of salaries and other benefits to employees hired through outsourcing agencies, sanction of land and sites for wounded soldiers, widows of martyrs, illegal formation and allotment of sites by Shivamogga Urban Development Authority, etc.

Justice Shetty disposed of over 7,000 complaints and conducted 115 inquiries against errant public servants. He submitted reports in 77 cases, recommending to the government to take action against erring officials. Among these cases include substandard work at Vikasa Soudha.

"All this was possible with state government accepting my request to provide nine additional enquiry officers of district judge cadre, and support staff for completing inquiries expeditiously. The government has also provided additional space by letting out the Women and Child Development block for the Lokayukta institution", said Justice Shetty.

He was successful in ensuring an amendment to Section 53(A) of Panchayat Raj Act to disqualify a gram panchayat member for the next term, in case the member was found guilty of wrongdoing and a report was not submitted before the expiry of the member's current term.

Similarly, he recommended to the government to modify the law in the case of corporators, members of taluk and zilla panchayats too.

EXPRESS EXCLUSIVE

While submitting details of assets and liabilities was extended to corporators, members of GPs, TPs and ZPs, apart from MLAs/MLCs, Justice Shetty persuaded the government to modify the law so that those details are submitted online to the Lokayukta too.

"I am satisfied with my work as Lokayukta. Though I was comfortable after retiring as HC judge and taking up practice as a senior Supreme Court advocate, I consider it a God-sent opportunity to serve this institution and the people of Karnataka. I received excellent cooperation in the discharge of my duties from officers within the Lokayukta as well as the government. The prevailing Covid situation has taken away almost two years. I could have done much more work if there was no pandemic," he said.

"An attempt was made on my life at my office and the case is under trial. I don't have any regrets about serving in the post. But what I do regret is the government taking away the power of prosecuting errant public servants under Prevention of Corruption Act after the establishment of the Anti-Corruption Bureau", he told The New Indian Express. He conceded that he could not persuade the high court to dispose of the matter challenging the constitution of the ACB before he demitted office.

"I had a clear perception and road map in my mind to bring greater transparency in administration, while giving less scope for mal-administration. I honestly believe that if the Lokayukta is strengthened with powers of anti-corruption, in addition to others, it will automatically pave the way for quick and efficient administration," he said.

BOMMAI THANKS PM, FM

State gets Rs 3.4k cr towards tax devolution, advance instalment

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Centre has released Rs 3,467.62 crore for Karnataka towards tax devolution, which includes an advance instalment. This, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said, will drive expenditure and strengthen demand.

On Friday, the CM tweeted, "Government of India released an advance instalment of tax devolution of Rs 3,467.62 Cr for Karnataka. Out of this, 1,733.81 Cr is regular January 2022 instalment & 1733.81 Cr is advance instalment. I extend thanks on behalf of people of Karnataka to PM @narendramodiji and FM @nsitharamanji." He further said, "This will help drive expenditure in key sectors, strengthen demand and aid economic growth in Karnataka. Especially when the state is facing the third wave of Covid, the advance instalment is a welcome relief."

Experts said this will help the state at a time when GST revenue collection, which was Rs 9,048 crore in November, dipped to Rs 8,335 crore in December and is expected to be lower in January.

On Thursday, the Centre released an advance instalment of tax devolution to the states amounting to Rs 47,541 crore.

"Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman has authorised the release of an advance instalment of tax devolution to state governments, amounting to Rs 47,541 crore. This is in addition to the regular devolution for the month of January 2022, also being released," the ministry had said in a statement.

Currently, 41 per cent of the tax collected is devolved in 14 instalments among states during a fiscal. The advance instalment of devolution in November and January will be adjusted for by the end of fiscal.

GOVT WILL SEND FRESH PROPOSAL ON BHARAT RATNA FOR SIDDAGANGA SEER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Tumakuru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday promised to send a fresh proposal to the Centre recommending posthumous award of the Bharat Ratna, the country's highest civilian award, to centenarian seer Sri Shivakumara Swami of Siddaganga Mutt, after discussion with the top leadership.

Speaking to reporters after taking part in a 'Dasoha Dina' programme to commemorate the third death anniversary of the seer, Bommai asserted that he will tread the path of the swamiji. The 'walking god' was instrumental in ensuring free food, shelter and education for the weaker sections of society through various charity institutions of the mutt.

Earlier, the Siddaramaiah-led Congress government had sent a proposal to the Centre to confer the award on the Swamiji.

"The government has dedicated itself to providing the 'Thrividha Dasoha' of Anna (food), Akshara (education) and Ashraya (shelter) for the weaker sections of society. This is a day that conveys the importance of food, education and shelter. The State Government has raised the per capita quota of rice for Anna Dasoha from 4 kg to 5 kg. Ragi and Jowar, too, are being distributed in accordance with regional food habits. Ration is being provided to Mutts and other charitable institutions which are involved in Anna Dasoha," the CM said.

As for Akshara Dasoha, the Vidya Nidhi scheme has been introduced for children of farmers while Rs 150 crore has been released for direct disbursement of scholarships for children of construction workers, Bommai said. The state and central governments have taken up housing schemes for Ashraya Dasoha, under which around five lakh houses are being built, he added.

Officers pulled up for allowing huge gathering

TUMAKURU: Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who recently recovered from Covid-19, took the police top brass to task for allowing a huge gathering at the Siddaganga Mutt on Friday. As soon as Bommai alighted from his car, along with Primary and Secondary Education Minister B C Nagesh, crowds approached him with flower bouquets. A visibly irritated CM questioned why the police let the crowd gather there, disregarding all Covid protocols. "Haven't we told you not to allow any gathering? Buddhi-giddi ideya nimage (do you have any wisdom)? Being a senior officer, don't you know what's going on here? Let these people stand away somewhere," he lashed out at the Central Range IGP and the Tumakuru Superintendent of Police. ENS

Karnataka to oppose TN's Hogenakkal water project

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government on Friday asserted that it will oppose the proposed water project at Hogenakkal in Tamil Nadu, stating that the neighbouring state cannot take up the work unilaterally. Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol said, "It has come to my notice that Tamil Nadu has announced finalising a Detailed Project Report worth Rs 4,600 crore to undertake Phase-2 of the Hogenakkal project. They cannot take this project unilaterally."

Karjol said the orders of the Cauvery Water Disputes Tribunal and the Supreme Court will have to be followed with regard to water utilisation. The border between Karnataka and Tamil Nadu at Hogenakkal has not been finalised yet by the Survey of India, which is essential for taking up the project, he said.

Tamil Nadu has been opposing the Rs 9,000 crore Mekedatu balancing reservoir project of the Karnataka government in Ramanagara district, which is aimed at meeting the drinking water needs of Bengaluru and neighbouring districts. Tamil Nadu contends that the project will impact the interests of farmers in its lower riparian regions. Instead, it had advocated a dam at Hogenakkal on the border between Chamarajanagar in Karnataka and Dharmapuri in Tamil Nadu.

Opposition Leader Siddaramaiah and KPCC president D K Shivakumar during the induction of former JD(S) MLC BEML Kantharaju into the Congress fold on Friday

'More from BJP, JDS waiting to join Cong'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WITH former JDS MLC from Tumakuru, BEML Kantharaju, joining the Congress on Friday, Opposition leader Siddaramaiah claimed that more leaders from BJP and JDS are eager to join his party, which, he said, is set to return to power after the 2023 Assembly polls.

"There are many in the queue. But they must join unconditionally without expecting the party ticket, must toe our line and be committed to the ideology of the party," he said at the KPCC office. "The people of the state want to restore the good governance of the 2013-2018 period and have started talking against the BJP government's misdeeds and maladministration. The Congress regaining power is 120 per cent certain," he declared.

Over the delay in implementing the Mekedatu project, Siddaramaiah targeted Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol and questioned what the BJP government had done in more than two-and-half years to overcome legal hurdles. "The BJP government had just recently announced five lakh houses for the poor after I raised the issue. I doubt if it can distribute it to the beneficiaries by March 2022," he said.

KPCC chief D K Shivakumar said those who want to join the Congress should convince the local leadership in their respective Assembly constituencies.

Kantharaju said he quit the JDS as it was failing in its secular ideology. "Except for H D Deve Gowda, none had the commitment for the ideology and hence, I chose the Congress to take my political career forward. I am aspiring to enter the Assembly from the Turuvekere seat in 2023 Assembly polls," he said.

Former deputy chief minister Dr G Parameshwara and Siddaramnaiah seemed to have differences in their opinions about Tumakuru district. Parameshwara said the Congress should win all the 11 seats in 2023 Assembly polls from the district. Later, in his speech, Siddaramaiah said the party should win at least 8-9 seats, which miffed the party workers who questioned why the party cannot win all the 11 seats.

Political outfits wade into hijab controversy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Udupi

The three-week-long headscarf row, which has cast a shadow on the academic atmosphere at the Women's Government PU College in Udupi, is showing no signs of abatement, with political interests now joining the issue.

The College Development Committee, led by local BJP leaders, is steadfast on not allowing Muslim girl students inside classrooms if they wear headscarves. They claim that it goes against the institution's rules on uniform.

While the Campus Front of India, affiliated to the Popular Front of India (PFI), had initially taken up the cause of the girl students who were protesting after being denied to wear headscarves in classrooms, the National Students' Union of India (NSUI), a student-wing of the Indian National Congress (INC), took up the cause on Friday.

A delegation of the NSUI state committee arrived at the college to meet the principal and to ask him to uphold the 'constitutional' rights of the students. However, with some students reportedly testing Covid-positive, the college was closed on Friday.

Faraq Bayabe, vice-president of NSUI, Karnataka, told reporters that a writ petition will be filed before the High Court if the fundamental right of wearing the hijab is denied to Muslim girl students.

The Women's Government PU College in Udupi remained closed on Friday

The delegation then submitted an appeal to Udupi Deputy Commissioner Kurma Rao seeking justice for the students.

As soon as right wing organizations got a hint that the NSUI delegation was arriving at the college, Hindu Jagarana Vedike leaders arrived there and gave reporters their version.

Hindu Jagarana Vedike's Mangaluru divisional general secretary Prakash Kukkehalli said if the hijab is allowed, Hindu boys will wear saffron shawls in all colleges in the district and attend classes. He further said if the headscarf is allowed, in future, the students may demand that skull caps and burqas also be allowed claiming it to be their religious symbols.

"The true spirit of the Constitution to uphold equality will then go," he said, indicating that the headscarf row is not going to end anytime soon.

A 19-year-old student was killed on the spot after a goods vehicle ran over her on a flyover in Bhadrappa Layout near Hebbal on Friday. The victim Mahashri was a resident of Thindlu, and was studying BBA. Police said she was riding pillion with her friend Narasimha. At 10.30 am, Narasimha went over a wooden piece on the road and lost control of the vehicle

'TS isolation kits may prove counterproductive'

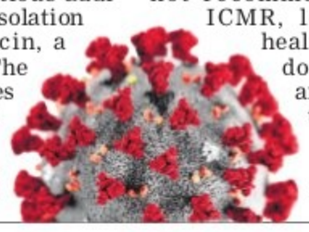
Liberal distribution of medicines removed by ICMR could prove harmful to public health at large, say experts

DONITA JOSE @ Hyderabad

IVERMECTIN, an anti-parasitic which was removed from the ICMR guidelines in September 2021, continues to be amongst the list of medicines being distributed by Telangana government as anti-Covid kits to the people with fever-like symptoms. On September 23, the ICMR had recommended removal of Ivermectin from the guidelines for clinical management of adults with Covid-19.

However, this medicine was distributed to various households in Hyderabad district itself even though the official brochure of the Health Department does not include it.

Another contentious addition in the home isolation kit is Azithromycin, a strong antibiotic. The clinical guidelines of ICMR re-issued on January 14 say that Azithromycin will not be of use in dealing with dehydration, fever and cough. The guidelines also do not mention use of vitamins as well.



This trend of including these medicines, which are not recommended by the ICMR, led to public health experts and doctors raising analarm. "When these medicines were added in the kit in the first two waves it was understandable because very little was known about the treatment protocol. But there is now a definitive evidence on what works and what doesn't," said Dr MSS Mukharjee, Senior Interventional Cardiologist, Medicover Hospitals.

Experts note that such liberal distribution of the two medicines could prove harmful not just to individuals but also to the public health at large.

Youth tries to extort money from cricketer, lands in police net

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A delivery boy, who posed as a bookie and tried luring a former Indian Premiere League (IPL) cricketer with Rs 40 lakh to fix a match with an intention to extort him, has been arrested by the Jayanagar police.

The accused Anand Kumar worked as a delivery boy with a private firm in Chikkalasandra.

Rajagopal Sathish, who had played for Kolkata Knight Riders in the IPL, is a Ranji player and is currently playing for Chepauk Super Gillies in Tamil Nadu Premier League (TNPL). Sathish allegedly received a text message on Instagram on January 3 and the sender with user ID Bunny_Anand had offered to pay Rs 40 lakh if Sathish agreed to indulge in match-fixing. He had also claimed he had approached other players to fix the TNPL matches and two of them had agreed. However, Sathish had cut the conversation.

"The player (Sathish) had brought the matter to the notice of the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI), who lodged a police complaint on January 14. Based on their complaint, the person who had sent the message was traced and arrested. During the inquiry, it was found that the accused had borrowed hand loan to the tune of Rs. 4-5 lakh but was unable to repay them," the police said.

The accused, who watched a video on YouTube about how to extort cricketers, decided to send messages to cricket players. "He planned to offer them a huge amount of money to fix a match through messages. If they accepted the offer, he intended to take the screenshot and later blackmail them for money threatening to share the conversation on social media," the police said, adding that he had sent similar messages to Antony Dhas, Sanjay Yadav, Aswin Crist, K Mani Bharathi, and Siddharth Manimaran, all five Tamil Nadu cricketers but none accepted his offer.

Hand grenade in open plot sparks panic in Haveri

Haveri: A hand grenade was found at a vacant land on the outskirts of Haveri on Thursday evening. After receiving information, Haveri police with the help of bomb squad defused it on Friday According to the police, the land owner went to clean his land in Ijarilakamapur and found a hand grenade there. He informed the police who sealed the area until the bomb squad arrived to defuse it. The grenade was old and rusty, there was a pin too which led to panic among the residents and police too. On Friday, the bomb squad arrived to the spot and examined it. They later took the bomb to the Hombaradi firing area and defused it. It has been sent to the laboratory for examination. Six months ago, 30 explosives were found near a railway station in the city. Without knowing it, a man tried to break one of the explosives and suffered injuries to his hand. Later, it was learnt that the explosives were kept by an unknown person to poach wild boar.

HC quashes proceedings against drug scandal accused

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

The Karnataka High Court on Friday quashed criminal proceedings against Virendra Khanna, one of the accused in a drugs scandal involving celebrities, due to procedural lapses in prosecuting him.

The court clarified that the order doesn't stop Khanna's prosecution in accordance with the law. Khanna moved court with the plea that proceedings against him pending before the trial court be quashed which the court allowed. "It is to be noted here that what is made out by the counsel for the petitioner is a sheer procedural lapse. This can be set right. If really the petitioner's involvement is there in commission of offences punishable under the NDPS Act, he must be tried in accordance with law and punished in case the prosecution is able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt," Justice Sreenivas Harish Kumar of the Karnataka HC said.

The court said that permission is to be accorded to the prosecuting agency to set right all the procedural mistakes and take action against the petitioner. The court said that police should have registered separate FIRs for past offences and filed separate charge sheets. Probably, the police might be under the impression that the same FIR would suffice even for those offences in 2015, 2018 and 2019. The charge sheet also shows that the last date of involvement of the petitioner was on March 8, 2020 in a party arranged at city's hotel but does not disclose his involvement in any offence committed after that date. Therefore, it is not understandable as to how the petitioner could have been arraigned as accused in one of the FIRs, the court said.

Modi to unveil 216-ft tall statue of Ramanujacharya

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi will unveil the 216-feet-tall statue of Sri Ramanujacharya at Chinna Jeeyar Swamy's ashram at Muchintal near Shamshabad, on the occasion of his 1,000th birth anniversary on February 5. In a statement issued here on Friday, Chinna Jeeyar Swamy said that Sri Ramanujacharya's statue which would be known as the 'Statue of Equality,' will be the second tallest one in sitting-posture in the world, after Lord Buddha's statue in Thailand. This statue is visible from a distance of six km.

President Ramnath Kovind is expected to visit the ashram to take part in religious ceremonies on February 14. The statue, which has been erected in a 45-acre land on ashram's premises, is made of panchaloha (five metals) — gold, silver, copper, zinc and alloy made of copper and tin.

TAKE STATES ON BOARD BEFORE TINKERING WITH IAS RULES

The Union government's proposed amendments to the IAS (Cadre) Rules regarding Central deputation of officers have, not surprisingly, set it on a collision course with state governments. Although how many states have objected to the rule changes is not clear as only West Bengal has come out in the open against the amendments, it will not be surprising if more do so in the coming days. Under the present arrangement on cadre of all-India services such as the IAS, IPS and the Indian Forest Service, the Union government asks for a list of officers from state governments every year who are willing to be deputed to Delhi.

So far this system of sharing officers between the Centre and the states has worked in a more or less congenial manner, free of any rancour or dispute. But in the recent past, there have been some occasions when differences have cropped up, particularly with Bengal. Last year the then state chief secretary, Alapan Bandyopadhyay, was asked to report to the Centre on the day of his retirement because he was not present for a meeting convened by Prime Minister Narendra Modi. But the state refused to let him go. Earlier the two governments had clashed over the Centre summoning three IPS officers after the BJP president J P Nadda's motorcade was attacked outside Kolkata. Whether the proposed amendments have been prompted by these face-offs is unclear, but the bone of contention is that if implemented, then the Union government's view will prevail whenever there is any disagreement over central deputation of officers.

According to data unofficially shared with the media, the number of IAS officers on Central deputation has been declining over the years. It was 309 in 2011 but that has come down to only 223 currently. Even if the Centre's concerns over the meagre numbers are genuine, it must take a considered decision only after it has taken into account the views of the states. The federal system of governance has worked well so far, and any unitary tendency will be wholly avoidable and unnecessary.

RISING PANDEMIC TOLL ECLIPSES ECONOMIC LOSS

As the Covid-19 pandemic furiously spreads its wings across the country, state governments are in a big dilemma. Nobody is in favour of a complete lockdown and shutting down the economy, especially after the prime minister's warning last week, but the rising number of active cases and the death toll is giving them jitters. Everyone learnt a hard lesson from the complete shutdown in the first wave, which forced thousands of migrants to walk days on end to reach their homes in faraway places. The economic growth fell to a deep gorge and is still struggling to get out of it. Yet, many states have now enforced restrictions in order to slow the spread of the pandemic.

The sudden surge in the number of fatalities has forced everyone to look at the third wave more seriously. On January 20, India reported more than 700 fatalities, with Kerala recording the highest at 341. Delhi, Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and West Bengal have also seen a sudden swell in the death toll. While both Delta and Omicron are creating havoc in Kerala, other states are facing the less virulent but fast-spreading newer variant. As per a study in Tamil Nadu, 95% of recent deaths are linked to comorbidities and lack of vaccination. Doctors and public health experts have also warned us that the toll may rise.

This is the prime reason why states have gone ahead and announced Sunday lockdowns and night curfews, apart from stopping people from crowding at market places and such. This is likely to lead to an economic loss as many establishments and industries, especially the tourism and hospitality sector, are hit badly. But will these measures help the state government rein in the spread? What is more important is that the governments have to walk an extra mile to get people vaccinated, and force them to wear face masks and follow other Covid-appropriate behaviour. Many states are still going slow with their vaccination campaigns. If the pandemic is allowed to spread and build natural immunity among people, the death toll among the unvaccinated and the elderly with comorbidities will see a rapid rise.

REVIVING TIBET DEBATE & IMPACT ON BORDER TALKS

N SATHIYA MOORTHY

Distinguished Fellow & Head-Chennai Initiative, Observer Research Foundation

Some recent publications, including books, have focused on India's China relations centred on Tibet. One such book was authored by former foreign secretary Nirupama Rao (The Fractured Himalaya) and another by A S Bhasin (Nehru, Tibet and China), formerly with the Ministry of External Affairs, who has compiled the nation's different bilateral ties from archival material. Products of painstaking research and also the respective author's experience, expertise and consequent perspective, they are unique retellings of India-China relations through the fifties and sixties, taking it as far back as the 1914 Simla Agreement.

Beijing has steadfastly claimed that it had not ratified that accord and hence the McMahon Line, which demarcates the international border between Tibet and Arunachal Pradesh, was not acceptable to it. At the same time, Beijing accepted the McMahon Line as the basis for renegotiating the Tibetan/Chinese border with Myanmar, thus legitimising the original map to that extent it had denied in India's case.

The 14th Dalai Lama, the present one, too added to the confusion. As recently as 2003, His Holiness referred to Arunachal Pradesh as being a part of Tibet. A year later, he modified the stand to acknowledge the trilateral agreement of 1914, initialled by the British-India government, Tibet and China. It took the Dalai Lama another four years to acknowledge that Arunachal Pradesh was a part of the Indian Union. In 2017, when he visited the region, he did so with the understanding and conviction that Arunachal was very much a part of India.

The multiple revival and recreating of Tibet-centric bilateral history leading up to the disastrous China War of 1962 can have two consequences. They reaffirm the historic blame for the cause and effect of the Chinese aggression on Jawaharlal Nehru's naivete as prime minister, which until then used to be passed off as great statesmanship. Such retelling also has the potential to bring Tibet back to the negotiating table, after successive governments in New Delhi have rightly denied the Chinese version that also lays claim to the whole of Arunachal Pradesh.

There are those who argue how Nehru might have used 'Panchsheel' as India's tool to buy truce, if not permanent peace, with China, when the nation was totally unprepared for war. The post-Independence, post-Partition economy and also national psyche just could not afford it. They also cite the then Army chief, Gen K M Cariappa, later elevated as Field Marshal, to argue that India could not have afforded a two-front war, the Army having been engaged with Pakistan almost right after Independence, which has left the western border at a boiling point since.

Since then, military experts the world over have been debating if India could afford a two-front war, after providing for the possibility of a coordinated attack. Through the seventies till the early part of this decade, Pakistan, and not China, was on the Indian radar. But even around the time of the Kargil War with Pakistan, in the year 1999, the then defence minister George Fernandes was quoted as claiming that China, and not Pakistan, was India's major threat of the future. Prophetic!

> Evaluating Nehru's failures on the China front is for domestic consumption—however genuine those evaluations are and true the conclusions. It is a different situation when one discusses the Tibet issue as if it is central to the bilateral border dispute

Future Dalai Lama: Evaluating Nehru's failures on the China front is for domestic consumption—however genuine those evaluations are and true the conclusions. Such criticism also abounds on his handling of the Pakistan situation, especially in taking the 'Kashmir issue' to the UN, where it is still languishing, technically. Again, the same arguments in his defence too apply.

It is a different situation when one discusses the Tibet issue as if it is central to the bilateral border dispute. In the past, Beijing seemed more concerned about New Delhi's involvement in the choice of a future Dalai Lama, or not recognising the one Beijing imposes. In comparison, even China's claims on Arunachal Pradesh used to sound secondary, as if it were only a bargaining chip. Not anymore, it now seems.

'Longest border' dispute: Independent of the Indian leadership's inexplicable reluctance to name China as the aggressor at Doklam and Galwan, the question arises if Beijing's two military escapades, especially the latter directly targeting India, had more to do with New Delhi toughening its stand on supporting the present Dalai Lama. India's current position comes closer to that of the US, the nation's post-Cold War politico-military partner.

The US and China share the Pacific Ocean but are separated by thousands of miles. In the post-Pearl Harbour era, including the 'Cuban missile crisis' in Cold War times, Washington has deftly avoided military altercations closer to the American homeland. Taiwan, South and East China disputes are all far away. Against this, India has a live dispute against China, involving possibly the longest border under contestation.

Under these circumstances, Chinese media and possibly Chinese negotiators could well quote Indian authors to argue their case on Arunachal Pradesh, even if only in a twisted fashion. And under the changed circumstances, the question also remains if Xi's China is bothered anymore about Indian or world opinion on the nomination of a future Dalai Lama either.

MARITAL RAPE EXCEPTION AND THE WAY FORWARD

ABHINAV NARAYAN JHA
Advocate based in New Delhi

SHAMBHAVI SUMAN
Student of law

The Delhi High Court and the entire nation seem to be at the crossroads regarding the contentious issue of marital rape. This matter came to our attention last year when the Chhattisgarh HC discharged a person of the offence of rape, but upheld charges under Section 377 of the IPC for "unnatural sex".

Looking through the legal lens at present, Section 375 of the IPC defines the offence of rape of a woman as any "sexual intercourse without her consent". It goes on to elaborate how the consent has to be well-informed. However, it also goes on to make the exception that a man who has non-consensual sexual intercourse with his wife, not being under the age of 15 years, is said to not commit rape.

This exception grossly violates Article 14 of the Indian Constitution that guarantees equality before law to every person. Article 15 further states that there shall be no discrimination on the basis of religion, race, caste, sex, place of birth, etc. Clause 3 of the same article advocates for special provisions for protecting the interests of women and children. These aspirational provisions make us believe that their violation would be met with strong resistance from the state. However, that seems a distant reality.

The law that was once devised with the intent of promoting women's welfare has been in fact aiding their oppression for far too long. Not bringing marital non-consensual sexual intercourse under the ambit of rape brings to light this systemic deprivation of women of their personal identity and autonomy over their bodies, merely reducing them to someone's wife, daughter, etc. This law was passed down from the British, who amended and criminalised the offence way back in 1991. It is, in fact, a criminal offence in more than 130 countries around the world.

The marital relationship between the victim and the accused should not be a valid defence for an offence of rape. From our standpoint, conjugal rights and the criminalisation of marital rape are at conflict with each other. The restitution of conjugal rights gives a spouse the right to demand sex in their marriage. Thus, if a woman denies her husband's rights by refusing to engage in sexual acts, it can be a valid ground for granting divorce. In the groundbreaking judgment of Joseph Shine vs Union of India, the Supreme Court decriminalised adultery and quashed the notion that a wife is a husband's property. According to the NJAC rulings, courts in India have legislative powers when there exists a statutory vacuum in our legal system. However, this is an overextension of their interpretation of powers. Courts can only decriminalise certain offences but not create new ones. But by striking down this exception, it can forge a path to the criminalisation of marital rape.

The Delhi government has submitted before the HC Bench that a court does not have the power to create new offences even as it argued that marital rape is treated as a crime of cruelty in India, which can be prosecuted under charges of domestic violence under the IPC. Under the present circumstances, cases of marital rape are registered under the Domestic Violence Act, 2005, or Section 498A of IPC, cruelty by husbands or in-laws. In the Domestic Violence Act, criminal penalties are nowhere near that for the offence of rape. The Domestic Violence Act registers cases of marital rapes under "sexual abuse" only.

> Not bringing marital non-consensual sexual intercourse under the ambit of rape brings to light this systemic deprivation of women of their personal identity. This law was passed down from the British, who amended and criminalised the offence way back in 1991.... While criminalising this offence is most desirable, it comes with its own set of challenges

So, while criminalising this offence is most desirable, it comes with its own set of challenges. While the criteria for determining the charges of rape should be the violation of consent, it is also true that the testimony of the victim cannot be the only evidence. For the legal system to hold someone guilty, the commission of that offence has to be proved beyond reasonable doubt. Those who argue against its criminalisation and classification as a separate offence believe that rampant misuse of the law coupled with the infamous delays of our judicial system would lead to an easy way to incriminate innocents for vengeance and vendetta. Nonetheless, they must look at the data by the NCRB that the conviction rate for the offence of rape is under 30%, also keeping in mind that most of the incidents go unreported.

Besides, the accused has the right to legal representation and present evidence that is contrary to the complainant's claim. Considering even the worst-case scenario when the charge sheet has been filed, the accused has the right to file an application for the discharge of such a charge sheet and stop the court from framing charges. Even then the accused has the right to approach the sessions court. Section 482 of the CrPC can be used to quash an FIR even before trial, given that necessary evidence is provided.

Misuse of the law is not limited to the dowry provisions. In fact, it extends very well to other sections of the IPC. However, one of the general legal principles followed around the world is that a law, if made to protect some, cannot be discredited solely on the grounds that it could be misused. The UN-CEDAW, the 172nd Law Commission Report and the Justice J S Verma Committee have also recommended marital rape's criminalisation. The lack of a proper framework for executing such a law is a hindrance to justice, and inspiration from other legal systems could be of great help.

Against federalism

Even before the controversy over the rejection of the R-Day tableaux of three non-BJP ruled states settled, the Centre government has courted another by proposing to amend the IAS Rules, thus enabling it to transfer officers to Central deputation without the consent of the concerned states (Proposed IAS rule change draconian: Mamata, Jan 21). This is against the federalism guaranteed by the Constitution and will not do any good for the overall performance or efficiency of bureaucrats. In fact, they would always work in fear due to the uncertainty of their tenure if they do not fall in line with the ruling dispensation. Hence, it would be best for the Central government to drop this move.
S Nallasivan, Tirunelveli

New rules need relook

The Central government is trying to tinker with what has been working well for so many years. Because of its brute majority, the NDA government may have its way without proper deliberations inside and outside Parliament, thereby disturbing the Centre-state axis. The officers themselves will face the heat. This will be one more problem for the already-beleaguered federal structure of our nation. Officers cannot even go to the state tribunal to contest the postings as per the new rules as they state that only the CAT in Delhi can be approached for this issue. One hopes the Centre sees reason and takes a relook at the proposed rules.

Vax drive for elderly in TN

It is disappointing to learn that the vaccination rate among the elderly in TN is lagging compared to the general population. This is despite the fact that it is well known that senior citizens and those with comorbidities are highly vulnerable. There is an urgent need to launch a special drive to get this vulnerable section of society inoculated. This will help in arresting the death toll.

Hop, step and jump

This is with reference to We, the people, have nowhere to defect (Jan 21). Keeping ideologies on the backburner, our politicians have perfected the art of hop-step-jump from one party to another with consummate ease. This does not augur well for the nation.
A Raveendranath, Aranmula

Ideology has no role

The phenomenon of aaya ram, gaya ram is unique to Indian democracy. Politicians here can very easily switch their affiliations overnight, especially during election season, to 'greener' pastures. Ideology has no role. These leaders have no shame while talking about things completely different from what they were uttering the previous day. And as the article rightly says, the people have nowhere to defect.

Ranji scrapped again

The BCCI's decision to scrap the Ranji Trophy for the second successive year, citing Covid as an excuse, does not augur well for Indian cricket. It is well known that the Ranji is a grooming ground for budding cricketers. Unlike cash-rich tournaments like the IPL, it generates very little revenue by way of ads and hence, it is subjected to such step-motherly treatment by the BCCI.

Pak-based YouTube channels, sites blocked

I&B ministry takes action against 37 social media platforms for spreading anti-India fake news and propaganda

PARVEZ SULTAN @New Delhi

CONTINUING its crackdown on Pakistan-based digital channels, portals, and social media handles running anti-India remarks and spreading fake news, the Union Ministry of Information and Broadcasting (I&B) has ordered blocking of 35 YouTube news channels and two websites.

Briefing about the action, Apurva Chandra, secretary of the ministry, on Friday said the gravity of the situation could be gauged from the fact that the blocked channels had over 1.20 crore subscribers. The videos had over 130 crore views.

He informed that additionally, the government has issued an order to block two Twitter profiles, two Instagram accounts and an unspecified number og Facebook users for spreading 'coordinated' anti-India disinformation over the internet.

"They are very toxic. All these channels are based in Pakistan. Totally baseless content which has no sense at all. This was a sort of war against the country, war of misinformation, against the sovereignty of the country. We received several inputs from various Indian intelligence agencies, which were monitoring these social media accounts and websites. They flagged them to the ministry for immediate action," said Chandra, adding that the public may also report such digital media platforms and users to the ministry.

The blocking order was issued by Rule 16 of the Information Technology Rules, 2021, on Thursday. In December, the ministry issued directions for blocking 20 YouTube Channels and two websites, operating from Pakistan under the same provisions for the first time.

The Pakistani digital media outlets blocked Apni Duniya Network and Talha Films Network, which are running 14 and 13 YouTube channels, respectively. The propaganda or fake news being spread by these channels were related to the Indian Army, issues in Jammu and Kashmir, demise of the former Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat and India's foreign relations with other countries. The channels had also started posting content to undermine the democratic process of the upcoming elections in five states.

We have issued directions to social media intermediaries & internet service providers. Last time, social media intermediaries had suo motu blocked those channels & websites — Apurva Chandra, I&B secy

OMICRON IN 90% OF METRO COVID CASES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

OMICRON now accounts for over 90% of Covid-19 cases in India. It is slowly spreading to the major metros, according to a top scientist.

According to the Indian Council of Medical Research's (ICMR) Head of Epidemiology and Communicable Diseases, Dr Samiran Panda, Omicron genome sequencing data has shown it is becoming the predominant variant in metros.

Genomic surveillance data showed that in 90% of cases in Mumbai and Delhi, the Omicron variant is the dominant strain. Though he said that Omicron-led spread would be seen in other Indian metro cities in the coming weeks, it will not completely replace the Delta variant, which is more deadly. "Omicron is gradually taking shape. We have to keep a watch," Dr Panda said.

India on Friday reported 3,47,254 new Covid cases. Active cases topped the two-million mark as the Omicron-led surge continued. Active cases have increased to 20,18,825, the highest in 235 days.

GOVT DENIES CoWIN HAS BEEN HACKED

The government on Friday denied that personal data of thousands of people have been leaked from the CoWin portal, including names, mobile numbers, address & test results

Professor K Srinath Reddy, president of Public Health Foundation of India, also stressed that as Omicron is spreading fast replacing Delta, India needs to slow its spread while speeding up double dose vaccination for all eligible persons and protective (booster) doses for high-risk groups.

"Though Omicron mostly causes milder disease, we need to slow down the transmission to prevent large-scale disruption of the workforce and high pressure on health systems by many persons needing attention," he added. Reddy said the focus should be on "energetically completing the vaccination coverage" in two months. India has done 1.64 lakh genomes sequencing so far.

Vaccines don't cause infertility: US study

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

COVID-19 vaccines do not cause infertility, though males who have been infected by the virus may experience short-term reduced fertility, according to the latest research published in the American Journal of Epidemiology.

The study found that couples trying to conceive found no association between Covid-19 vaccination and fecundability — the probability of conception per menstrual cycle — in either women or male partners.

However, the research conducted by Boston University School of Public Health (BUSPH) indicated that Covid-19 infection among males may temporarily reduce fertility. But this can be overcome if a vaccine is taken.

"Many reproductive-aged individuals have cited concerns about fertility as a reason for remaining unvaccinated," says the study's lead author, Dr Amelia Wesselink, research assistant professor of epidemiology at BUSPH.

"Our study shows for the first time that Covid-19 vaccination in either partner is unrelated to fertility among couples trying to conceive through intercourse. Time-to-pregnancy was very similar regardless of vaccination status of the individuals." The study analysed couples who had taken Pfizer-BioNTech, Moderna or Johnson & Johnson vaccines.

According to senior study author Dr Lauren Wise, who is a professor of epidemiology at BUSPH, "These data provide reassuring evidence that Covid vaccination in either partner does not affect fertility among couples trying to conceive."

Farmer named in 2nd charge sheet of Lakhimpur case

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

AFTER filing the first charge sheet in the Lakhimpur-Kheri violence case early this month, the special investigation team of UP police filed another 1300-page charge sheet on Friday against the accused named in the cross FIR in connection with the incident.

The charge sheet in the cross FIR was submitted by investigating officer SK Pal. As per sources, a non-bailable warrant has been issued against farmer Ranjit Singh, whose complicity was found by the investing team. Singh has not been caught by the police yet. So far, seven farmers have been arrested in this case.

Trial in the main violence case has started against the 13 accused, found involved in the mowing down of four protesting farmers and a local journalist under Tikunia Police Station in Lakhimpur Kheri on October 3. The 13 accused include Ashish Mishra, son of Union MoS Ajay Mishra Teni.

The farmers' protest took a violent turn on that day when four of them along with a local scribe were trampled under an the SUV allegedly driven by Ashish Mishra, the key accused. The farmers were protesting the visit of UP Deputy CM Keshav Maurya when the incident occurred. As a fallout of the farmers' deaths, a mob lynched two BJP workers and the driver of the minister's car.

A cross FIR was filed by BJP corporator Sumit Jaiswal against the farmers in the lynching case. Jaiswal is also an accused in the violence case in which the farmers were killed. He is currently lodged in Lakhimpur district jail along with the other accused.

AG's nod against hate speech accused

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

ATTORNEY General (AG) K K Venugopal on Friday granted consent to activist Shachi Nelli for initiation of criminal contempt of court proceedings against Yati Narsinghanand over his derogatory remarks against the Supreme Court.

The top law officer of the country found that Narsinghanand's statement "those who believe in this system, these politicians, in the Supreme Court, and in the Army will all die the death of a dog", was a direct attempt to lower the authority of the Supreme Court in the minds of the public.

As per Section 15 of the Contempt of Courts Act, the consent of Attorney General is required before the Supreme Court can hear a criminal contempt of court petition filed by a private individual. Nelli had, therefore, written to the AG seeking his consent.

Narsinghanand's statements were made in response to questions posed about the court proceedings in the Haridwar hate speech case. The letter moved before the AG provided the entire statement made by Narsinghanand and also provided details of where the clip can be found. As per the plea, Narsinghanand's statements undermined the majesty of the institution and authority vested in the Supreme Court and was an attempt at interfering in the course of justice.

NARSINGHANAND'S BAIL PLEA REJECTED

Dehradun: Two courts in Haridwar have rejected bail pleas of Yati Narsinghanand and Jitendra Narayan Tyagi — arrested in connection with the Dharma Sansad where alleged hate speeches were made. On January 16, a Haridwar court had sent Narsinghanand, the organiser of the Dharma Sansad and the head priest of Dasna temple, to 14-day judicial custody. He was arrested on January 15 while staging a 'satyagraha' against the arrest of Tyagi two days ago.

Fresh order to protect victim identity on TV

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE ministry of information and broadcasting has issued a fresh advisory to private TV channels to refrain from disclosing identity of sexually assaulted victims.

Referring to the previous advisory issued following an order of the Supreme Court in August 2018, the ministry said channels need to strictly follow the 'programme and advertising codes' and directions of the court. It adds that all TV channels were also requested earlier to ensure photographs of the victims of sexual abuse should afre not displayed either in morphed or blurred form for the safety, mental and physical health of the victim.

The ministry noticed that some channels still disclosed the identity of a rape victim or a sexually assaulted girl.

Mumbai cops arrest 3 in Haryana for app chat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mumbai

THE Mumbai Police's crime branch on Friday arrested three persons from Haryana for allegedly participating in a discussion through the audio chat app Clubhouse, where they made derogatory remarks against Muslim women.

The police said the accused have been identified as Akash Suyal (19) from Karnal district in Haryana, who was moderator of the group. Another accused, Jaishnav Kakkar (21) is a B Com student. The third, Yash Parashar (22), is a resident of Faridabad and a law student. Mumbai Police traced the locations of the accused through social media.

Police said the trio had created two chat rooms on January 16 and 19, where the participants used derogatory comments against women, especially those belonging to the Muslim community. They also spoke about auctioning the body parts of women.

The incident came to light when a two-minute video of the conversations in the chat room was shared on social media that subsequently went viral. Following this, a woman against whom objectionable comments were made, reported the matter to the cyber cell unit of Mumbai Police.

An FIR was registered under Sections 153(a), 295(a), 354(a) and 354(d) of the Indian Penal Code and Section 67 of the Information Technology Act. The police are also trying to identify and trace others who were a part of the chat room. Shiv Sena's Rajya Sabha MP Priyanka Chaturvedi praised the police for prompt action.

Flame shift: Cong says BJP has no sense of history

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Congress on Friday slammed the Centre for extinguishing the Amar Jawan Jyoti flames, saying that it is a sad day for the country and that those in power do not understand patriotism.

MP Manish Tewari termed it a national tragedy and an attempt to rewrite history.

"It is a matter of great sadness that the immortal flame that used to burn for our brave soldiers will be extinguished today. Some people cannot understand patriotism and sacrifice — never mind. We will once again light the Amar Jawan Jyoti for our soldiers!" Rahul Gandhi tweeted.

Slamming the Centre, Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha, Mallikarjun Kharge said: "The RSS in principle doesn't consider martyrdom as ideal but a fatal flaw." He added that excerpts from MS Golwalkar's 'Bunch of Thoughts', which has now been taken off the RSS website, explain this kind of mentality. "This explains why the Modi Govt is extinguishing Amar Jawan Jyoti, after half a century," tweeted Kharge.

30 OBCs, 19 SCs and 15 women among candidates for phases 3 & 4

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

THE BJP on Friday released its second list of 85 candidates for the third and fourth phases of the upcoming UP polls giving tickets to 30 OBCs, 19 SCs and 15 women.

In the second list, while the party has reposed faith in the turncoats, it has cut tickets of fewer number of sitting MLAs as compared to the first list.

Former Kanpur Police Commissioner Aseem Arun has been fielded from Kannauj, which is a reserved seat. Arun had joined the BJP recently taking VRS from IPS.

Prominent among the turncoats are Aditi Singh, the sitting MLA from Rae Bareli Sadar. She has been fielded from the same seat. Similarly, sitting Congress MLA Rakesh Singh, who switched sides to the BJP, has been fielded from his own Harchandpur seat, also in Rae Bareli which is the parliamentary constituency of AICC president Sonia Gandhi.

Similarly, Assembly Deputy Speaker Nitin Agarwal, who had left the SP along with his father Naresh Agarwal to join the BJP, will fight from his current seat Hardoi. A prominent BSP leader and former minister in the Mayawati government, Ram Veer Upadhyaya has been fielded from Sadabad in Hathras district.

In the second list of candidates, the BJP has fielded the ministers Satish Mahana, Ranvendra Pratap Singh alias Dhunni Singh, Nilima Katiyar from their respective constituencies.

Similarly, the party, which had swept all eight seats of Lakhimpur Kheri in 2017, has repeated six of its eight sitting MLAs in the district. One of the two who have been denied tickets is Bala Prasad Awasthi from Dhaurahra. He had recently switched sides to the SP. The party has declared names of more women candidates — 15 — in second list as compared to the first one. The number of names announced by the party has reached 195.

ELECTION BUGLE

'BJP WILL WIN MANIPUR POLLS AT A CANTER'

THONGAM Biswajit is a senior minister in Manipur's BJP-led coalition government, handling six departments including PWD and Panchayat & Rural Development. The BJP had to cobble up numbers to form the government the last time. This time, Biswajit, who is considered close to the RSS, tells Prasanta Mazumdar that the party will win at a canter. Excerpts from an interview:

What will make us win is 'dil se dil' i.e. heart-to-heart mode. The medium may be over the phone, online or 'heartline'

How confident is the BJP of retaining power?
I am fully confident that our party will retain power. It will secure a thumping victory. The BJP is with the people of Manipur. Our party honours the responsibility given by the people.

How do you rate the government's performance?
The people of the state have tried and tested us. I can say with full conviction that with the double engine government, Manipur has seen a new pace of development in an environment of peaceful co-existence among different communities.

What is your assessment of the Congress? Some surveys suggest it will do well?
The Congress is Manipur's principal opposition party. But in the last five years, its political graph has been going down. Winnable candidates, including sitting MLAs, are leaving it one after another. I can only say that surveys are always with an error margin.

Is the BJP better prepared than the Congress??
We prepare our own electoral strategy. The Congress would have also done its own. Results will tell us in black and white which one was better. Strategies alone will not work. People will definitely assess the actions of both parties.

The BJP had lost some seats with very small margins last time. How is the party strategising to win those seats?
We are formulating a composite strategy at the party level at the advice of senior leaders to win those seats.

What is your take on National People's Party (NPP) and Naga People's Front (NPF)?
NPP and NPF are our alliance partners. We respect their aspirations and honestly want to observe the coalition dharma.

Any tussle between the BJP and the NPP?
We are members of a larger family. Small differences might have occurred at times, but they were ironed out amicably.

As the campaign is largely in digital mode, how is the BJP reaching out to the voters?
We don't reach the voters only at the time of elections. We are with them; we reach them and they reach us. We also have our IT team, but only digital mode won't make us win. What will make us win is 'dil se dil' i.e. heart-to-heart mode. The medium may be over the phone, online or 'heartline'.

What is your take on the demand for ST status to the Meiteis?
It is a demand of lakhs of people. What we need at this juncture — Meiteis being the major community in the state — is to bring about an understanding on the demand among the ethnic communities.

There have been some violent incidents in recent past. Do you think the polls can be held peacefully?
Democracy will prevail and those evil minds designing such violent acts will be defeated and the polls will be held peacefully.

Do you consider yourself as a CM candidate?
I am a loyal karyakarta (worker) of the party... Our party and our leaders will decide what will be my role and my personal consideration will be that only.

Sangh takes charge of Hindutva outreach in UP

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

CAUTIOUS of the recent defections in the ruling BJP and the efforts of the Opposition to give the narrative of backward class versus upper castes in the upcoming Assembly polls in Uttar Pradesh, the Rashtriya Swayamsewak Sangh (RSS), the fountainhead of the saffron camp, has decided to take over the command of the party's Hindutva-driven campaign by roping in its frontal outfits.

As per the strategy chalked out recently in Lucknow, the development works done right from Ayodhya to Varanasi will be taken to every Hindu household in the poll-bound state. The electorate will also be made aware of "pseudo Hindutva" of the Opposition.

A booklet in this regard is being prepared and it will list the efforts made by PM Narendra Modi and UP CM Yogi Adityanath to glorify the places attached to the "Sanatan culture", said a senior RSS functionary. The plan is to "go beyond the Hindutva and expand it to Mahatma Buddh, Bhagwan Mahavir and Sikh Panth Gurus in such a way that the narrative outsmarts caste equations in the state".

The RSS and its frontal organisations are preparing to target the opposition camp using Hindutva coupled with nationalism. This would include abrogation of Articles 370 and 35 A, surgical strikes, and law against foreign funding.

The sources claimed that the plan was to establish the notion that a "bit of slackness would hurt the pride of Hindutva and put it under threat".

The outfits roped in for this campaign are ABVP, Vishwa Hindu Parishad, Hindu Jagran Manch, Sewa Bharti, Vidya Bharti, Vanvasi Kalyan, Shakshik Mahasangh, Bharatiya Kisan Sangh, Swadeshi Jagran Manch, Durga Vahini and Rashtra Sewika Samiti.

'Cong open to alliance'

PRIYANKA, however, said her party would be open to a post-poll Opposition alliance in event of a fractured mandate. "If such circumstances arise and in the event that they do, we would be open to considering that," she said. Explaining the party's experiments in UP, former Congress chief Rahul Gandhi said: "If you want to propose a new vision to India, you have to start at UP."

Utpal Parrikar quits BJP after denied Panaji seat

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

IN a big jolt to the ruling BJP in Goa, Utpal Parrikar, son of former Union minister late Manohar Parrikar, quit the party on Friday and announced his independent candidature from Panaji.

Last Thursday the BJP had declared a list of 34 candidates for the Goa elections. The list had no mention of the Junior Parrikar who had sought ticket from Panaji. The ruling party not only gave the Panaji ticket to Atanasio Monserrate but also fielded Monserrate's wife, Jennifer, from another seat. Monserrate had joined the BJP in 2017 after leaving the Congress.

An engineering graduate, Utpal made the formal announcement of his candidature at a press conference in Panaji. Utpal said he has been working in the constituency for quite some time and is confident of defeating the opponents.

Utpal said his father had been elected from Panaji for more than two decades because of the "people's love and affection". "They supported my father because he stood for some value. The time has come for me to stand for those values," he added. "The ticket has been given to someone who has opportunistically come to the party two years back. I have no choice but stand for the values and let the people of Panaji decide my political fate," Utpal said.

'Building new monuments unlike past'

Ahmedabad: In a veiled attack on the Congress, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday said that after Independence, new construction works took place only for "a few families from Delhi", but his government brought the country out of this "narrow thinking" and is building "new monuments of national importance". He was speaking after virtually inaugurating a newly-built Circuit House near the famous Somnath temple in Gir Somnath district of Gujarat. Elaborating on the potential of the newly developed places, Modi said that despite the pandemic, 75 lakh people have come to see the Statue of Unity in Gujarat. ENS

Bengal BJP infighting spreads to another turf

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

INFIGHTING within the Bengal BJP has spread to Junglemahal from the Matua-dominated pockets — both strongholds of the saffron party — as five party MLAs from Purulia district have written to BJP national president JP Nadda urging him to change the district presidents who were elevated in the recent rejig. Two MLAs from adjoining Bankura district, too, have made the same request.

Sources in the BJP said the MLAs individually wrote to Nadda expressing their discontent on the issue of inducting new faces in the party hierarchy. "Many of them also left the social media group of the party," said a BJP leader.

The saffron camp's deep inroads in Bengal first came to light in Junglemahal, which was earlier a Maoist stronghold and had turned into TMC's bastion after the change of guard in the state in 2011, after the local body polls in 2018. "The discontent among the MLAs from Junglemahal is significant because it is the only region, other than the Matua stronghold, where the party performed better in the last year's Assembly elections. The back-to-back rebellion in the backward region may prove to be a double whammy for the party," admitted a BJP leader.

A dissident MLA said he has sought "respect to old functionaries". "At the same time, we have also requested to give opportunities to new comers, instead of turncoats," he said.

Activists seek pushing of poll dates to weekend

The clamour for postponing Uttarakhand Assembly elections is growing, given the raging winters clubbed with the Covid situation. Many also seek to push the dates to weekend since weekdays mean fewer turnout at the polling booths. Anoop Nautiyal, from THE Social Development for Communities Foundation, said, "I humbly request Election Commission to postpone the elections in Uttarakhand to February 27 (Sunday) instead of February 14 (Monday). My request is based on three reasons -- Covid, migration and weather." In 2002, voting in Uttarakhand took place on February 14 (Thursday) with 54.34%, followed by February 21 (Thursday) in 2007 with 59.45%, January 30 (Monday) in 2012 with 66.17% and February 15 (Saturday) in 2017 with 65.60%.

IIT-Roorkee wins National Gold Award

IIT-Roorkee's team of researchers led by Prof Dharmendra Singh has won the National Gold Award for E-Governance for Outstanding Research on Citizen-Centric Services by academic/research institutions. The team won the accolade for the development of e-waste-based microwave absorbing materials for electromagnetic shielding and stealth applications. BJP eyes army votes by fielding Rawat's brother

With Vijay Rawat, late CDS General Bipin Rawat's brother, joining the Bharatiya Janata Party, political analysts say that the BJP is playing its cards right to capture the votes of armed forces families. At present, over one lakh are personnel working in the armed forces and their families sum up for a considerable chunk of votes. Uttarakhand-based political analyst Kirantkant Sharma said, "An average man in the state takes pride in General Rawat's legacy. The move is to kindle those sentiments in favour of the BJP. It will also counter the claim of armed forces-centric nationalism by BJP's rivals." The share of such families can be between 3-5 lakh.

US, Russia try to lower temperature in Ukraine crisis

No 'breakthroughs' in high-level talks; Blinken says US and allies remain resolute in rejecting Russia's most important demands

GENEVA

THE United States and Russia sought to lower the temperature in a heated standoff over Ukraine, even as they reported no breakthroughs in high-level, high-stakes talks on Friday aimed at preventing a feared Russian invasion.

Armed with seemingly intractable and diametrically opposed demands, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken and Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov met in Geneva for roughly 90 minutes at what the American said was a "critical moment". But there was no apparent movement on either side, and Blinken said the US and its allies remain resolute in rejecting Russia's most important demands. Nonetheless, Blinken told Lavrov that the US would present Russia with written responses to its proposals next week and suggested the two men would likely meet again shortly after that.

With an estimated 100,000 Russian troops massed near Ukraine, many fear Moscow is preparing an invasion although Russia denies that. The US and its allies are scrambling to present a united front to prevent that or coordinate a tough response if they can't.

"We didn't expect any major breakthroughs to happen today, but I believe we are now on a clearer path to understanding each other's positions," Blinken told reporters after the meeting.

Blinken said Lavrov repeated Russia's insistence that it has no plans to invade Ukraine but stressed that the US and its allies were not convinced of that. "We're looking at what is visible to all, and it is deeds and actions and not words that make all the difference," he said, adding that Russia should remove its troops from the Ukrainian border if it wanted to prove its point.

Lavrov, meanwhile, called the talks "constructive and useful" and said the US agreed to provide written responses to Russian demands on Ukraine and NATO next week. That could at least delay any imminent aggression for a few days. But Lavrov declined to characterise the US pledge.

"I can't say whether we are on the right track or not," he told reporters. "We will understand that when we receive the US written response to all of our proposals." Moscow has demanded that the NATO alliance promise that Ukraine -- a former Soviet republic – never be allowed to join. It also wants the allies to remove troops and military equipment from parts of eastern Europe.

The US and its NATO allies have flatly rejected those demands and say Russian President Vladimir Putin knows they are nonstarters. AP

Pope vows justice for abuse victims

ROME

POPE Francis pledged on Friday to provide justice to victims of clergy sexual abuse, a day after an independent audit faulted his predecessor, Pope Benedict XVI, for having botched four cases of abusive clergy when he was archbishop of Munich, Germany.

Francis met with the members of the Vatican office that handles sex abuse cases in a previously scheduled annual audience. The Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith was headed by Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger — Benedict before he became pope — for a quarter-century.

In his speech, Francis didn't refer to the findings of a long-awaited report into how the Munich archdiocese handled abuse cases from 1945 and 2019. Ratzinger was archbishop there from 1977-1982. But Francis said the church was continuing to discern the way forward in the abuse scandal, which has discredited the Catholic hierarchy at the Vatican and around the world.

"The church, with God's help, is carrying out the commitment with firm determination to do justice to the victims of abuse by its members, applying with particular attention and rigor to the canonical legislation envisaged," Francis told the group. He recalled he had recently updated the Vatican norms to handle abuse cases to make them more effective. "This alone cannot be enough to stem the phenomenon, but it is a necessary step to restore justice, to repair scandal and reform offender," he said. AP

Three suspects behind Lahore blast identified

Lahore: After scouring through CCTV footages, Pakistan police on Friday identified three suspects, who they believe had orchestrated the powerful bomb blast that ripped through a crowded market here where Indian commodities are sold, killing three people and injuring 28 others. The blast took place after an explosive device went off near Paan Mandi in the Anarkali market. "Through CCTV footage, three suspects, one placing the bag seemingly full of explosives, and two others coordinating with each other, were identified," a senior police official said on Friday. "Geofencing of the area has also been done and soon we will reach the suspects," he said. The footage shows the suspect placing a bag outside a bank in Anarkali Bazaar, while the other two were seen coordinating with each other. AP

Tough restrictions imposed as Covid cases set record

Kathmandu: Nepal's capital shut schools, ordered citizens to carry vaccination cards in public, banned festivals and instructed hotel guests to be tested every three days as it battles its biggest Covid outbreak. The chief government administrator issued a notice on Friday saying all people must carry their vaccination cards when they are in public areas or shop in stores. The Health Ministry reported a record 12,338 new cases on Thursday and 11,352 on Wednesday, compared to a few hundred cases last month. AP

CHINA

'US missile sanctions hegemonic action'

Beijing: China on Friday criticised Washington for imposing sanctions on Chinese companies the US says exported missile technology, and accused the United States of hypocrisy for selling nuclear-capable cruise missiles. The US announced penalties on three companies it said were engaged in unspecified "missile technology proliferation activities". It said they were barred from US markets and from obtaining technology that can be used to make weapons. "This is a typical hegemonic action. China strongly deplores and firmly opposes it," said Foreign Ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian. "China urges the United States to immediately correct its mistakes, revoke the relevant sanctions and stop suppressing Chinese enterprises and smearing China." AP

IS gunmen unleash deadly attacks in Iraq, Syria; dozens killed

BAGHDAD

MORE than 100 militants from the Islamic State (IS) group carried out a complex attack on Syria's largest prison holding suspected extremists, officials said on Friday, as members of the group in Iraq stormed an army barracks, killing 11 soldiers as they slept.

The prison break in Syria is believed to be the largest since the militants lost the final sliver of territory they held nearly three years ago.

In recent months, IS sleeper cells have become more active in both countries, claiming attacks that killed scores of Iraqis and Syrians.

In Iraq, IS gunmen attacked an army barracks in a mountainous area north of Baghdad early Friday, killing 11 soldiers as they slept, the Iraqi military and security officials said.

The officials said the attack occurred in the Al-Azim district, an open area north of the city of Baqouba in Diyala province. The circumstances of the attack were not immediately clear, but two officials, on condition of anonymity, said IS militants broke into the barracks at 3am local time and shot dead the soldiers, before fleeing. An Iraqi military statement said the dead included an officer with the rank of lieutenant and 10 soldiers.

Spectacular prison breaks are a hallmark of militant attacks. IS militants launched multiple prison breaks during their surge in 2014 before swarming territory in Iraq and Syria.

In Syria, more than 100 IS fighters using heavy machine guns and vehicles rigged with explosives attacked the Gweiran Prison in the northeastern city of Hassakeh where some 3,000 suspected IS militants are being held, according to a spokesman for the Kurdish-led Syrian Democratic Forces, Farhad Shami. He said seven US-backed Kurdish fighters were killed and several others were wounded. At least 23 IS attackers were also among the dead, he said.

"This is the biggest attack not only in Syria but also in Iraq and the region," Shami said in reference to attacks carried out by IS since the militant group's was defeated in Syria in March 2019.

"The prisoners include commanders and are among the most dangerous." The complex attack was mounted on Thursday evening and aimed to free fighters from the group incarcerated there. AP

Taliban to hold meeting in Norway next week

COPENHAGEN

A TALIBAN delegation plans to travel to Norway next week for talks with the Norwegian government and several allied countries, as well as meetings with civil society activists and human rights defenders from Afghanistan.

The Norwegian Foreign Ministry said on Friday that it has invited representatives of the Taliban to Oslo from January 23 to January 25.

Norwegian newspaper VG said special representatives from the United States, Germany, Britain, France, Italy and the European Union were expected to take part.

Norwegian Foreign Minister Anniken Huitfeldt stressed that the visit was "not a legitimation or recognition of the Taliban. But we must talk to those who in practice govern the country today." "We are extremely concerned about the serious situation in Afghanistan," Huitfeldt said, noting that economic and political conditions have created "a full-scale humanitarian catastrophe for millions of people" facing starvation in the country.

The acting foreign minister, Amir Khan Muttaqi, will lead the Taliban delegation to Norway.

The trip would be the first time since the Taliban took over the country in August that their representatives have held official meetings in Europe. Earlier, they travelled to Russia, Iran, Qatar, Pakistan, China and Turkmenistan.

Zabihullah Mujahid, the Afghan deputy culture and information minister, said Muttaqi expects to hold separate meetings with the Unisted States' delegation and bilateral talks with European representatives. AP

'Over 100 killed or hurt in Yemen prison airstrike'

DUBAI

A SAUDI-LED airstrike targeting a prison run by Yemen's Houthi rebels killed and wounded over 100 detainees on Friday, rescuers said. It was part of a pounding aerial offensive that hours earlier saw another airstrike take the Arab world's poorest country off the internet.

A strike in the port city of Hodeida hit a telecommunication centre there that's key to Yemen's connection to the internet. Airstrikes also hit near Sanaa, Yemen's capital held by the Iranian-backed Houthi rebels since late 2014.

The intense campaign comes after the Houthis claimed a drone and missile attack that struck inside the capital of the United Arab Emirates earlier in the week. Basheer Omar, an International Committee of the Red Cross spokesperson in Yemen, said rescuers continued to go through the prison site in the northern city of Saada, also controlled by the Houthis. "The toll is likely to increase, unfortunately," Omar said. The Red Cross had moved some of the wounded to facilities elsewhere, he said. There was no breakdown for how many were killed and how many were wounded.

Doctors Without Borders, in a separate statement, put the number of wounded alone at "around 200" people. AP

Floyd killing: Jury in federal trial 'mostly white'

ST PAUL (US)

A JURY of 18 people who appeared mostly white has been picked for the federal trial of three Minneapolis police officers charged in George Floyd's killing, a case that the judge told potential jurors has "absolutely nothing" to do with race.

The jurors chosen to hear the case against former officers Tou Thao, Thomas Lane and J Kueng appeared to include one person of Asian descent among the 12 jurors who would deliberate if no alternates are needed, and a second person of Asian descent among the six alternates, with all others appearing white.

Thao, who is Hmong American; Lane, who is white; and Kueng, who is Black, are broadly charged with depriving Floyd of his civil rights while acting under government authority as Derek Chauvin, who is white, used his knee to pin the Black man to the street.

The videotaped killing triggered worldwide protests, violence and a re-examination of racism and policing. Opening statements are scheduled for Monday.

The single day of jury selection was remarkably rapid compared with Chauvin's trial on state charges, where the process took more than two weeks. The apparent jury makeup would also sharply contrast with Chauvin's jury, which was half white and half nonwhite. Responding to a potential juror who said he wasn't sure he could be impartial "due to my colour", US District Judge Paul Magnuson sought to reassure him and other jurors in the pool.

"There is absolutely nothing about the subject of religion, race or ethnicity that's involved in this case," Magnuson said.

The man, an immigrant who appeared to be Black, was later dismissed. Legal experts said Magnuson's remark was accurate from a legal perspective. They noted the officers aren't accused of targeting Floyd because he was Black, but rather of depriving him of his constitutional rights. AP

RIL's revenue, PAT hit record level

Net rises 41.5% to ₹18,549 cr; Reliance Retail profit at ₹2,259 cr while Jio profit at ₹3,795 cr

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

INDIA'S most valued company Reliance Industries (RIL) on Friday reported a 41.5% year-on-year jump in net profit to ₹18,549 crore in the October-December quarter of the current fiscal year. Total income soared 52% year-on-year basis during the quarter to reach ₹1.95 lakh crore.

According to an average estimate by Bloomberg, Reliance net profit was expected at ₹15,264 crore and the revenue was pegged at ₹1.75 lakh crore.

On a consolidated basis, RIL's revenue during the quarter crossed the ₹2 lakh crore mark for the first time in company's history to 209,823 crore (up 52.2% YoY) and profit (after exceptional item) to ₹20,539 crore (up 39% YoY).

The O2C business reported a revenue of ₹1.31 lakh crore, as against ₹83,838 crore in the year-ago period primarily on account of increase in crude oil prices and higher volumes.

"The recovery in global oil and energy markets supported strong fuel margins and helped our O2C business deliver robust earnings," said Mukesh Ambani, Chairman and Managing Director, Reliance Industries Limited.

The retail business of RIL delivered all-time high revenue of ₹57,714 crore and a net profit of ₹2,259 crore. Ambani, who is also Asia's richest billionaire, said , "Retail business activity has normalised with strong growth in key consumption baskets on the back of festive season and as lockdowns eased across the country."

Jio reported a revenue of ₹24,176 crore while net profit came in at ₹3,795 crore. On the sequential basis, Jio PAT was almost flat even as it witnessed an increase in its ARPU.

Jio's ARPU during the quarter came at ₹151.6 per month, which is 8.4% higher on YoY basis.

SOUTH KOREA

$12 BN EXTRA BUDGET TO TACKLE IMPACT OF COVID CURBS

South Korea unveiled a 14 trillion won ($11.75 billion) supplementary budget on Friday to support the self-employed and small businesses that have taken a heavy hit from extended Covid-19 curbs. Some 11.5 trillion won will be used to help small business owners and compensate their losses caused by the extension of virus-related measures, the finance ministry said. Another 1.5 trillion won is earmarked to secure COVID-19 treatment pills for 400,000 people and 25,000 hospital beds. The other 1 trillion won will be used as contingency reserves should the Omicron coronavirus variant spread further and require more support. To finance the extra stimulus, the government will issue 11.3 trillion won worth of treasury bonds and utilise 2.7 trn won from public fund reserves. The extra budget, which will be submitted to parliament on Monday, comes at a time when the ruling Democratic Party is struggling to recover public support just weeks ahead of the country's presidential election. With the latest supplementary budget, the total government spending would reach record 621.7 trn won this year.

CHINA

ECONOMY POISED TO GROW 5.5%, CABINET ADVISER SAYS

China will be able to achieve about 5.5% economic growth in 2022, a government cabinet adviser said Friday, markets expect as recent data point to slowing momentum I'm predicting a rosy colour rather than doing it. The world's second-largest economy cooled during the last year, the real estate recession hurt investment, and China's efforts to contain local cases of Omicron put pressure on consumption. Because of this, we are facing multiple headwinds. As a result, policymakers have begun to roll out a range of support measures, including reducing interest rates on standing lending facilities (SLF) loans by 10 basis points the day after the central bank lowered benchmark lending rates. Friday's comment by former Deputy Finance Minister Zhu Mitsuya is more optimistic than that of a private economist. The government will announce its growth targets for 2022 in early March. The Cabinet has promised to accelerate the issuance of government bonds to promote investment, and the Ministry of Finance will issue 1.46 trn yuan ($ 23.26 bn) in pre-allocation of local bonds in 2022.

JAPAN

UP TO BOJ TO DECIDE ON EXIT FROM EASY POLICY: PM

Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida reiterated on Friday that it was up to the central bank to decide on an exit strategy from its massive stimulus programme. "It's left to the Bank of Japan to decide on specific monetary policy, including the thinking on an exit from monetary easing," Kishida told parliament. "We hope the BOJ continues to make efforts to achieve its 2% inflation target," he said. Kishida's comments came in response to a question from opposition lawmaker Hitoshi Asada, who called on the government to focus on structural reforms rather than rely too heavily on ultra-loose monetary policy to reflate growth. With consumer inflation well below its 2% target, the BOJ has stressed it is in no rush to exit from ultra-easy policy and described recent cost-push inflation as transitory. But some opposition lawmakers have warned of the hit to households from rising food and fuel prices, a sign creeping inflation is emerging as a political topic ahead of upper house elections scheduled later this year. Policymakers see higher wage growth as crucial to mitigate the pain on households and pull the economy out of the doldrums caused by the impact of the pandemic.

Nifty, Sensex shed more than 3.5% amid weak global cues

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

A streak of bad news continues to play spoilsports for equity markets in India as the benchmark indices – Nifty and Sensex – continued their downward trend ending the week 3.6% below their Monday opening.

The Sensex on Friday shed another 427 points, or 0.72%, to close just above 59,000 level. Nifty ended the day with a loss of 140 points (-0.8%) at 17,617 levels. "Weak global sentiments wreaked havoc in the volatile domestic market this week. Rate hike worries amid rising inflation, elevated bond yields, ongoing geopolitical tension and surge in oil prices weighed on sentiments," says Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services.

Continued FII selling and patchy corporate earnings along with surging Covid cases globally were key factors driving the domestic market.

"Nifty has corrected almost 750 points from its recent peak... Globally induced volatility, mixed set of results and heavy FII selling have added pressure in the market," says Siddhartha Khemka, Head - Retail Research, Motilal Oswal Financial Services Ltd.

Vodafone Idea's consolidate net loss widens to ₹7,231 crore in Q3

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TELECOM operator Vodafone Idea Limited (VIL) reported widening of consolidated net loss to ₹7,231 crore for the quarter ending December 31, 2021.

The third largest telecom firm of India had reported net loss of ₹4,532 crore in the year-ago period. However, the company said it had improved its Average Revenue Per Users (ARPU) to ₹115, up 5.2%, as against ₹109 in Q2FY22.

After increasing the tariff in November, Vodafone Idea witnessed decline in its subscriber base to 247.2 million vs 253.0 million in Q2FY22. But the good news for the telco is its 4G subscriber continued to grow. With 0.8 million customers added in Q3, 4G base now stands at 117.0 million. Subscriber churn increased to 3.4% in Q3FY22 vs 2.9% in Q2FY22.

Q3 PERFORMANCE

Consolidated	Q2FY22	Q3FY22
Revenue	94,064 mn	97,173 mn
EBIDTA	38,629 mn	38,165 mn
PAT	71,323 mn	72,309 mn
ARPU	109	115

Figures in ₹

"We are pleased to announce the second consecutive quarter of revenue growth driven by several tariff interventions taken in the last few months. While the overall subscriber base has declined as a result of the tariff interventions, the 4G subscriber base remained resilient on the back of superior data and voice experience offered by Vi GIGAnet," said Ravinder Takkar, MD & CEO of Vodafone Idea Limited.

"We remain focused on executing our strategy to improve our competitive position and win in the marketplace. Separately, we have opted for upfront conversion of interest arising from deferment of spectrum and AGR dues into equity," Takkar added.

The company said its net debt stands at ₹1.989 lakh crore as of December end. It comprises deferred spectrum payment obligations of ₹1.113 lakh crore, AGR liability of ₹64,620 crore that are due to the government and debt from banks and financial institutions of ₹23,060 crore.

On Friday, Vodafone Idea's scrip on BSE closed trading 1.2% lower at ₹11.90.

Options traders see RIL stock in 6% price range post Q3 results

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

PUNTERS have sold a huge number of options on RIL at ₹2,500 call level on the hope of the stock either correcting or not rising materially above that level post its Q3 results.

The ₹2,500 call on the oil-to-telecom behemoth has the highest outstanding positions, provisional data shows.

The put with the highest outstanding positions is at ₹2,400.

Punters are banking on RIL trading in a ₹2,390-2,535 range post its numbers. Data shows the bias for downside rather than upside ahead of the group's Q3 results on Friday evening.

The underlying share closed flat at ₹2476.05 on Friday.

If the stock trades as they predict, they will get to retain the premium paid by the option buyers, whose maximum loss is limited to the premium paid for the call or put options.

The risk for the option sellers is a break out of the range they've calculated as that would expose them to huge losses.

Traded and delivery volumes on the cash counter too remained subdued.

Traded quantity of RIL shares Friday stood at 52.53 lakh against the three month average of 62.12 lakh. Delivery stood at 27.37 lakh shares against the three month average of 32.96 lakh shares.

At Friday close the stock traded 11% below its 52-week high of ₹2,751.35 on Oct 19 last year. Buyers at ₹2,400 put and ₹2,500 call will be betting on sharper movement than the sellers.

Amazon warns against sale of FRL's small stores

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN a letter to Future Retail's independent directors, e-commerce major Amazon has offered financial assistance to FRL, with which it is embroiled in a legal dispute over the latter's sale of assets to Reliance Industries for nearly ₹25,000 crore.

The US firm, however, has warned FRL not to sell its small-format chain of stores that operate under the Easyday and Heritage Fresh brands without Amazon's consent.

"We reiterate our willingness and ability to assist FRL in addressing any financial concerns of FRL, within the framework of the agreements, including the solution proposed in the term sheet between Samara Capital, and FRL, which contemplated an infusion of ₹7000,00,00,000 in FRL," Amazon said.

Warning the Indian retailer about sale of its stores, Amazon said it has become aware from certain media sources that FRL is proposing to sell its small format stores, comprising the Easyday and Heritage Fresh brands.

Meanwhile, Bloomberg on Friday reported Future Retail isn't in a position to pay for ₹3,500 cr ($471 m) of past-due debt. "It will also miss an upcoming $14 m bond coupon deadline, the report said quoting people aware of the issue.

Niti Aayog wants EVs on RBI's priority lending list

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BANKS and non-banking financial companies (NBFCs) in India have the potential to achieve an electric vehicle (EV) financing market size of ₹40,000 crore ($5 billion) by 2025 and ₹3.7 lakh crore ($50 billion) by 2030, said NITI Aayog in a report and proposed the government to include EVs in the Reserve Bank of India's priority-sector lending guidelines.

The report which is prepared with Rocky Mountain Institute (RMI) and RMI India notes that given the nascency of EV technology and adoption, financial institutions such as banks and non-banking finance companies (NBFCs) are not lending to EVs due to associated asset and business model risks. "These risks are both real (e.g., uncertainty of resale value) and perceived (e.g., product quality). As a result, if financing is available, EV buyers are unable to obtain terms (i.e., interest rates and tenures) that are comparable to ICE vehicles, the report said.

The report indicates that electric two-wheelers, three-wheelers, and commercial four-wheelers are early segments to prioritise under PSL. Moving forward, the engagement of other ministries and industry stakeholders will be important to ensuring the guidelines designed can effectively enhance EV investment in India.

The public and private sector investments and initiatives in the EV ecosystem are accelerating capital deployment towards India's electric mobility transition. The government's flagship initiatives FAME II, PLI for ACC batteries and automotive manufacturing amount to total investment of ₹60,000 crore. However, in terms of sales, EVs represent a little over 1% of the market.

Digital commerce platform next 'UPI moment', says Goyal; bets on start-ups

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

THE Open Network for Digital Commerce (ONDC) is the next 'UPI moment', as it will enable interoperability between e-commerce companies and will also provide new opportunities for start-ups to grow. This will help new-age technology in getting access to the common man at affordable cost, said Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal.

Releasing the Nasscom Tech Start-up Report 2021 on Friday, he said, "Developed in India, ONDC provides equal opportunity to small and large players and will help control digital monopolies and make industry more inclusive for buyers and sellers alike."

Goyal said that we should aim for at least 75 unicorns in the 75-week period to the 75th anniversary of independence. The minister also said that removing the burden of over 26,500 compliances, exemption of angel taxes and simplification of tax procedure were some of the steps taken by the government to boost the start-up ecosystem.

He also said that there is a lot of potential in start-ups from Tier-II & III cities.

According to the Nasscom report, 29% of all start-ups are based outside the emerging start-up hubs such as Ahmedabad, Kolkata, Coimbatore, Chandigarh, Thiruvananthapuram and Surat. Of these 7% are deep-tech start-ups.

In the last decade, the start-up ecosystem has played a key role in growing direct and indirect job opportunities, providing 6.6 lakh direct jobs and more than 34.1 lakh indirect jobs. The industries that saw the most net new job creation were BFSI, edtech, retail and retail tech, foodtech, SCM & logistics and mobility.

With retail investors embracing new start-ups, alternate investment and exit options and global macro environments, 2022 will have at least 15-20 start-up IPOs by the end of this year. Over 2,250 start-ups were added in 2021 and over $6 billion has been raised through public markets with 11 start-up IPOs in 2021, said the report.

Also, start-ups have raised $24.1 billion in 2021, a two-fold increase over pre-Covid levels. When compared to 2020, there was a 3X increase in the number of high value deals (deals over $100 million), the report added.

Sixteen members of the senior men's hockey team were among the 33 Covid-19 cases detected on Friday at the Sports Authority of India's National Centre of Excellence, Bengaluru. The positive cases came after 128 tests were conducted at the high-profile centre, the Sports Authority of India said.

Barty time in sight after Osaka's exit

AFP @ Melbourne

DEFENDING champion Naomi Osaka was dumped out of the Australian Open third round on Friday by unseeded American Amanda Anisimova to open up the draw for title favourite Ashleigh Barty.

Anisimova, ranked 60th in the world, saved two match points to stun the former world number one 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 (5) and will now face Barty in the last 16. It was a hugely disappointing end to Osaka's reign in Melbourne, having also gone out at the same stage at the US Open in September, after which she took a break from tennis. Australia's Barty was a comfortable 6-2, 6-3 winner over Italian 30th seed Camila Giorgi.

Nadal enters fourth round

Rafael Nadal dropped a set for the first time at this year's Australian Open but played his best match since injury to beat Karen Khachanov and steam into the fourth round. Nadal rolled into a two-sets lead and was looking to sweep it in straight sets, before the Russian 28th seed hit back to take the third. Nadal won 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 in 2hr 50min.

ROUND 3 RESULTS (SELECT)

Men's singles: Matteo Berrettini (ITA x7) bt Carlos Alcaraz (ESP x31) 6-2, 7-6 (3), 4-6, 2-6, 7-6 (5); Alexander Zverev (GER x3) bt Radu Albot (MDA) 6-3, 6-4, 6-4; Denis Shapovalov (CAN x14) bt Reilly Opelka (USA x23) 7-6 (4), 4-6, 6-3, 6-4; Rafael Nadal (ESP x6) bt Karen Khachanov (RUS) 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. Women's singles: Ashleigh Barty (AUS x1) bt Camila Giorgi (ITA x30) 6-2, 6-3; Amanda Anisimova (USA) bt Naomi Osaka (JPN x13) 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 (5); Maria Sakkari (GRE x5) bt Veronika Kudermetova (RUS x28) 6-4, 6-1; Barbora Krejcikova (CZE x4) bt Jelena Ostapenko (LAT x26) 2-6, 6-4, 6-4; Paula Badosa (ESP x8) bt Marta Kostyuk (UKR) 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

Protea fire burns india

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

WHEN the Indian team landed on the shores of South Africa last month, they were regarded as favourites in both the Tests and the ODIs. But things did not fall in place and once they lost in the longer format, winning the 50-overs contest was looked upon as a saving grace. However, the upbeat South African side taught the experienced Indian team a lesson by registering a seven-wicket victory to take an unassailable 2-0 lead in the three-match ODI series in Paarl on Friday.

The home team crossed India's score of 287 in the 49th over as Janneman Malan (91) and Quinton de Kock (78) played a pivotal role in the win. The openers were in top form throughout the innings and laid the platform for a series victory.

The back-to-back losses in the ODI series is a wake-up call for India, who are also using these matches as preparation for the 2023 World Cup. Barring Rohit Sharma, India have their best possible ODI squad in South Africa, but they have struggled to perform as a unit. If the middle order failed in the first ODI, the second game was not different. Barring Rishabh Pant, Shreyas Iyer and Venkatesh Iyer were not able to make much difference in the team's score. Even Virat Kohli failed. There are more questions than answers for the team management with Rahul Dravid at the helm.

The failure of the Indian bowlers to trouble the South African batters also cost them. In fact, in the two ODIs so far, India only took seven wickets, which is surprising as they possess top bowlers in their ranks. The form of Bhuvneshwar Kumar, who is regarded as a white-ball specialist, does not augur well with the pacer wicketless in the series so far and he lacked the rhythm on Friday. South African bowlers, in contrast, have 14 wickets so far.

India, who won the toss and opted to bat first, might have gone about their business quite well until the 33rd over of the game with KL Rahul and Pant looking quite good. The southpaw, who walked in at No 4, played aggressively to score 71-ball 85. Though the skipper also did well to complete a half-century, he could not really get on top of his opponents as his strike rate of 69.62 suggests.

When the two were in the middle, India were in the driving seat, mainly due to Pant's innings, which included ten fours and two sixes. In a matter of few balls, both the players were back in the dugout and Shreyas and Venkatesh's quick dismissals meant they were dependent on their lower order. Shardul Thakur made his case for batting promotion with 40 runs while Ashwin added 25 to help the team reach 287/6.

Train, compete and evaluate: Lifting HPD

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

WEIGHTLIFTING is perhaps one of the most tainted sporting disciplines in the world. Rampant doping across the globe, potential corruption and subsequent cover-ups have ruined the image of International Weightlifting Federation's image. Of late, the sport is trying very hard for an image make-over, especially after the International Olympic Committee removed the sport from the priority list for the 2028 Olympics.

Doping has been an issue in India too and there is a common perception that weightlifting success is related to substance abuse. Aveenash Pandoo, who was appointed as the High Performance Director in weightlifting, felt that perception is misleading and there is a definite possibility of excelling in the sport even without doping.

Pandoo would try and educate lifters and their coaches about winning through adopting other scientific methods like right diet and nutrition, training and recover. "We cannot pursue the old methods followed by the Russian or the Bulgarian," he said. He felt athletes have to adapt and change. "Yes. With good education and development programmes to athletes, federation and coaches involved with the sport, it is possible," Pandoo said during an interaction hosted by SAI on Friday.

Pandoo wants to bring about the change in the mindset of the coaches too and get them to adapt with the sports' changing landscape too. "The landscape of the sport is also changing. This is where we have to revisit the coach's mindset. It is still lying in the old philosophy. It is time that we change that philosophy of our coaches, insisting on athletes to compete every four, six months. Train and evaluate. And improve."

Mirabai should be selective

Tokyo 2020 silver medallist Mirabai Chanu should be intelligently selecting her competitions before the 2024 Paris Olympics. Pandoo felt she has to manage her workload well. "Mirabai will deliver at the Paris Olympics," said Pandoo. "Her coach Vijay Sharma and she would find a way of doing it."

5 players to join India U-19 as Covid cover

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

WITH five members of the Under-19 team currently down with Covid in Trinidad & Tobago, the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) has decided to send five reserve players to the Caribbean immediately. It is understood that the BCCI took the decision after a formal request was made by the team after taking stock of the situation.

The five players include two batters, one wicketkeeper, one all-rounder and a pacer. They are Udhay Saharan, Abhishek Porel (wk), Rishith Reddy, Ansh gosai and PM Singh Rathore. The BCCI's logistics team is working on their travel plans. They will undergo six-day quarantine upon their arrival in Antigua. There is a strong possibility that India's quarterfinals match will now be played January 29 allowing players enough time to recover.

As per the tournament rules, should those under isolation don't recover in time for the quarterfinals, the Indian team can use the replacements on a temporary basis and the regulars can always come back for the next match. The five players will be allowed to join the team only after returning three negative tests.

On the morning of their second group match against Ireland on Wednesday, the Indian team was hit by Covid scare with six players placed under isolation. The entire team was tested again on the same evening and it is reliably learnt that there are no more fresh cases in the camp and their last group match against Uganda is set to go ahead as schedule on Saturday as India now have 12 players after pacer Vasu Vats, who was placed under isolation with symptoms, testing negative for Covid. However, a final decision will be taken only by late Friday evening (IST). As previously reported by this newspaper, the Indian team is understood to be unhappy with the relaxed bio-bubble in place and have communicated to the BCCI.

T20 WC: India, Pakistan in same group yet again

AFP @ Melbourne

INDIA and Pakistan will lock horns in a blockbuster T20 World Cup group clash for the second year running after the fixtures for the October-November 2022 tournament in Australia were announced. The arch-rivals will lock horns at the Melbourne Cricket Ground on October 23, a day after Australia begin their title defence against New Zealand in Sydney — a repeat of the 2021 final in Dubai where Aaron Finch's team won their maiden crown.

The 16-nation tournament will begin on October 16 with Sri Lanka facing Namibia in Geelong — one of seven venues as Australia hosts for the first time. The top two teams from both Group A and Group B in the preliminary first round will join the automatically qualified nations in the Super 12 stage.

England, New Zealand, Australia and Afghanistan have been drawn together in Group 1. India, Pakistan, South Africa and Bangladesh are clubbed in Group 2.

The science of Tonga volcanic eruption

The recent volcanic eruptions in Tonga surprised many scientists. How could a single volcano, essentially a tiny dot in the ocean, create a Pacific-wide tsunami that can kill two people in Peru, which is more than 10,000 km from Tonga? What is the science behind this eruption at Hunga Tonga-Hunga Ha'apai, an uninhabited volcanic island in the South Pacific? Here's what experts say

2X AROUND THE WORLD

The sound of the explosion was heard as far away as Alaska, 9,000 km from the source and the shock wave or sonic boom from the volcano travelled twice around the world

WHAT TRIGGERED AN OCEAN-WIDE TSUNAMI?

The Tonga eruption created a volcanic-source tsunami. This event is rare but not unprecedented

The volcano is located in the Pacific Ring of Fire, where a rift between shifting tectonic plates results in increased seismic activity

In an eruption, the magma rises to the surface and causes volcanic gases to be released that then push their way out, creating pressure

When the gases reach the water, it expands into vapour, creating even more pressure. Normally it is very unlikely that an ocean-wide tsunami is triggered by a single-point eruption

In this case, it is likely that an underwater landslide or the volcano's special location just beneath the surface of the ocean could have made its effects worse

The volcano is almost entirely submerged. When eruptions happen deep in the ocean, the water tends to muffle the activity. When it happens in the air, the risks are concentrated to the immediate area. But when it's just under the surface, that's when the tsunami risk is greatest

TONGA MAINLY SPARED

Authorities had confirmed on Wednesday three deaths in Tonga, with concerns remaining about people on some of the hard-hit smaller islands. Dozens of homes were destroyed

However, why the tsunami wasn't bigger and more destructive in Tonga still remains a mystery

Cleaning crews work to remove oil from a beach in the Peru. The LaPampilla refinery had leaked over 6,000 barrels of oil after being struck by the tsunami

EXPLOSION FACTS

The plume rose into the air more than 30 kilometres but the eruption lasted only about 10 minutes, unlike some big ones that can continue for hours

The explosion ranks among the world's biggest over the past 30 years. The volcano cloaked Tonga in a film of ash and sent shock waves that could be seen from space

SERIES OF ERUPTIONS

The main explosion occurred on 15 January 2022. But the recent burst of activities started in December 2021

There were sporadic bursts of eruption starting from 2009

An unusually large eruption on 14 January, which preceded the major explosion, is believed to have blown away a part of the volcano above water

5.8 MAGNITUDE QUAKE

The volcano was equivalent to a 5.8-magnitude earthquake at 0 depth

1.2M TSUNAMI

Tongan capital was struck by a 1.2m tsunami. The coasts of Japan, Peru, Chile, Mexico and the US were also affected by the giant waves

DID YOU KNOW?

"The last explosion that was audible at that distance was caused by the Krakatoa volcano in Indonesia in 1883 it killed 36,000 people," said Paris-based geologist Raphael Grandin

Peanuts in kids' diet can help avoid allergy: Study

RESEARCH

PARIS: Including peanuts in children's diets early in life could help stave off allergies against the legume, which can be fatal and affect swathes of youngsters globally, according to a new study on Friday.

Researchers found that introducing peanut products to babies and infants, and gradually increasing exposure, led to greater tolerance for the common allergen.

The peer-reviewed study, published in The Lancet, involved 146 peanut-allergic children aged between zero and three over two-and-a-half years. Of the group, 96 were given peanut protein powder every day, with the dose increasing progressively to the equivalent of six peanuts. The other children received a placebo of oat flour.

Twenty of the children who received peanut powder showed allergy remission, meaning no allergic reaction occurred six months after the therapy ended. One child in the placebo group showed remission.

Six months after the treatment, the children in remission could tolerate a dose equivalent to 16 peanuts.

An additional 20 children who received peanut powder were considered 'desensitised', meaning they had a higher allergic threshold but were not considered in remission.

These children could tolerate a dose equivalent to between six and 12 peanuts six months after the treatment ended.

The youngest children in the study experienced remission the most often, and the best results were in those under 12 months. Peanut allergies affect two per cent of children in Western countries, according to the study, and can last a lifetime.

Affected children must avoid eating peanuts and have self-injectable adrenaline available to fight allergic shocks, which can be fatal if they are accidentally exposed.

Exposure can even occur when a child hugs someone who has just consumed the legume.

"There are no treatment options, resulting in a considerable burden on allergic children and their caregivers to avoid accidental exposure," said co-author Wesley Burks.

Russia sees highest-ever daily Covid cases

The country saw 49,513 new infections on Friday against the previous high of 41,335 in Nov; still less than 50% of the population is fully jabbed

COVID

MOSCOW: Russia on Friday reported a record number of new coronavirus infections over the previous 24 hours, a government tally showed, with officials warning of surging cases driven by the Omicron variant of the coronavirus.

A government website reported 49,513 new infections in Russia, which is already one of the world's worst-hit countries by caseload, surpassing the previous record set in November of 41,335.

Cases across Russia have risen sharply in recent days, with authorities predicting an imminent surge due to the fast-spreading Omicron variant.

Russian President Vladimir Putin warned last week that the country had two weeks to prepare for a surge, calling for more testing and vaccinations.

The new record came a day after Moscow—the epicentre of the outbreak in Russia—said it had seen its highest number of new cases since the beginning of the pandemic.

Following a strict—but brief—national lockdown in the beginning of the pandemic, Russia has held back on curbs to protect its struggling economy. Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said on Friday that during a recent meeting, Putin and Moscow Mayor Sergei Sobyanin did not discuss the possibility of introducing a new lockdown in Moscow.

Sobyanin had said earlier this week there would be no new restrictions in Moscow so long as hospitals were able to cope with numbers of virus-related patients.

The developers of Russia's flagship vaccine, Sputnik V, said this week that its jab demonstrated "strong protection" against Omicron, pointing to a study carried out by the Spallanzani Institute in Italy.

Putin has previously said that Sputnik V could possibly be "more effective" than Western-developed jabs.

With several vaccines widely available for months, Russians remain reluctant to get jabbed, with just under half of the population fully vaccinated.

Covid-19 hits research base in Antarctica

For the first time since the start of the pandemic the coronavirus has reached an Argentine research base in Antarctica, causing the evacuation of nine unvaccinated staff who tested positive for Covid-19, an official said on Thursday. Twenty-four of the 43 scientists and military personnel resident at Argentina's La Esperanza base have been infected

Austria makes jabs mandatory in EU first

Austria's parliament on Thursday approved making Covid-19 vaccinations mandatory for adults from next month, becoming the first European country to do so despite a wave of protests. Tens of thousands have demonstrated against mandatory vaccination in rallies since the measure was announced in a bid to drive up the country's vaccination rate

Oz records deadliest day of the pandemic with 80 deaths

COVID

CANBERRA: Australia on Friday reported its deadliest day of the pandemic with 80 coronavirus fatalities, as an outbreak of the Omicron variant continued to take a toll.

But Dominic Perrottet, premier of the most populous state, New South Wales, said a slight decrease in hospitalisations gave him some hope about the strain the outbreak is putting on the health system.

The previous record of 78 deaths was set on Tuesday. There have been just under 3,000 coronavirus deaths in Australia since the pandemic began.

New South Wales, home to Sydney, reported a record 46 deaths. They included a baby who died from Covid-19 in December, one of several historical cases that were investigated. The news came after the premier of Western Australia state, Mark McGowan, backed down on a promise to reopen the state to the rest of the country on Feb. 5. In a late-night news conference on Thursday, McGowan said reopening the state as planned would be "reckless and irresponsible" given the large number of Covid-19 cases in other states. No new date has been set for when the state might relax its border closure.

WARM INSIDE

Amazon looks to grab offline space too

TECH

NEW YORK: First, Amazon competed with malls. Now, it's moving inside one. The online retailing giant said on Thursday that it plans to open a clothing store in a Southern California mall later this year. It's the latest foray into brick-and-mortar for Amazon, which already sells more than 10% of all clothes in the US.

The store, which will sell women's and men's clothing as well as shoes and other accessories, will open at Americana at Brand, a mall in Glendale, California. The entry into malls could become another threat to traditional clothing sellers because of the data and shopper insights Amazon may gain, experts say.

Amazon says its algorithms will spit out real-time recommendations as shoppers keep scanning items that they see. Shoppers can also fill out an online survey of their preferences for style and fit.

The store will be about 30,000 square feet, similar in size to a Kohl's, but about one-third the size of other department stores like Macy's. However, it will offer more than double the number of styles as traditional stores do because only one of each piece of clothing will be on display, with the rest in the back room. Items are chosen by Amazon curators who also use feedback provided by millions of customers shopping on Amazon.com.

Simoina Vasen, managing director of Amazon Style, declined to comment on rollout plans of the new store concept or sales projections. Amazon didn't give a precise date for the opening of the Glendale store.

Amazon unseated Walmart as the largest clothing seller last year during the pandemic as more people began shopping online. Wells Fargo forecast in March that Amazon's clothing and footwear sales in the U.S. increased by about 15% in 2020 to more than $41 billion. That's about 20% to 25% above Walmart and 11% to 12% share of all clothing sold in the U.S.

Amazon has been making a big push into fashion in recent years through its own labels and in September 2020, it launched an online shop called Luxury Stores.

Shoppers at the Amazon Style store can browse items on display and scan a QR code to see sizes, colors and customer ratings. Shoppers can send items to fitting rooms or directly to the store's counter. Once in a fitting room, customers can request other items using a touchscreen.

"Amazon Style completely reimagines what's possible in the fitting room, turning it into a personalized space where customers can continue to shop a seemingly endless closet of great styles," Vasen wrote in an Amazon blog.

75TH ANNIVERSARY

The metaphorical Doomsday Clock stays at 100 seconds to midnight for the 3rd year

SCIENCE

WASHINGTON: The "Doomsday Clock," representing the judgement of leading science and security experts about perils to human existence, remains at 100 seconds to midnight again this year, with advances like Covid-19 vaccines balanced by rising misinformation and other threats.

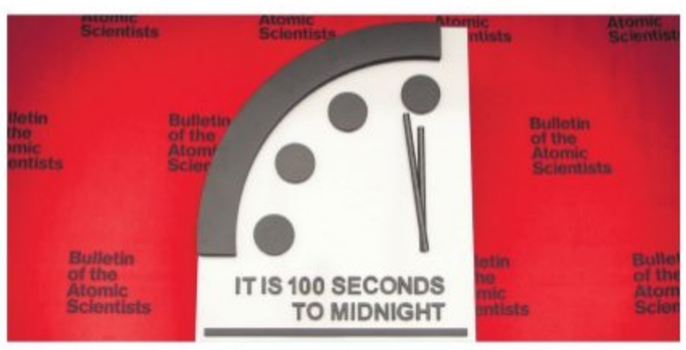
Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists president Rachel Bronson declared on Thursday the world was no safer this year than two years ago, when the clock's hands were moved to their current position.

"If humanity is to avoid an existential catastrophe, one that would dwarf anything it has yet seen, national leaders must do a far better job of countering disinformation, heeding science and cooperating," she said on the 75th anniversary of the clock's initial unveiling.

The fact that it hasn't shifted closer to midnight does not imply threats have stabilized.

"On the contrary, the Clock remains the closest it has ever been to civilisation-ending apocalypse because the world remains stuck in an extremely dangerous moment."

The Bulletin was founded in 1945 by Albert Einstein, J Robert Oppenheimer and other scientists who worked on the Manhattan Project which produced the first nuclear weapons.



The clock that makes you feel really unsafe has been static for a few years| AFP

Its time is set by the organisation's board, with the support of its board of sponsors, which includes 11 Nobel laureates.

In its statement, the Bulletin noted hopeful developments at the start of 2021, including the renewal of the New START arms control agreement.

But international tensions continue to loom ominously, including most recently over Ukraine. The US, Russia and China meanwhile continue their march to develop hypersonic weapons. On climate, COP26 in Glasgow offered positive rhetoric but relatively little action.

Encouragingly, several countries announced net-zero carbon dioxide targets by 2050, but getting there would require immediate divestment from fossil fuels, investment in renewables, upgrading infrastructure and shifting land use and agriculture practices.

I have known Blossom's for 18 years now. For someone like me who stays close to Church Street, Blossom is like a jewel in the region, just like how Ranga Shankara is to the south of Bengaluru. We are lucky to have many friendly book stores in Bengaluru which make our lives even more pleasant. In fact, I also donate a lot of books to the store.

Ramachandra Guha, author

Congratulations Mayi Gowda on your 20 years of making readers happy. Some of my favourite books and vinyl (that too) came from Blossom Book House.

Anita Nair on Twitter, author

Blossoms run by Mayi Gowda and Bookworm run by Krishna Gowda are like twins in Bengaluru. You can't do without either of them. Both came from the same village in Mandya district and grew up the hard way. I have known the two even when they were platform book sellers. Their transformation has happened right in front of my eyes.

HOUSE OF BOOKS

SANATH PRASAD

BLOSSOM'S has been an integral part of my bookshelf." "Church Street isn't complete without you." "Only place where the intoxication is due to the smell of a great book collection." Bibliophiles can't stop sharing their thoughts on social media about their connection with Blossom Book House, which celebrated its 20th anniversary recently. It's business as usual at the store where founder Mayi Gowda is looking after book orders and ensuring they reach readers. "We had planned to celebrate the occasion by organising a get together for authors and readers and wanted to give away free books. But we have postponed it to May, owing to the Covid-19 situation," says Gowda, who will also be celebrating his birthday in the same month.

For a person, who travelled to Bengaluru from Mysuru in 1995 to study engineering, the very thought of selling books never existed. However, one night in Uparpete, near Majestic, completely changed his life. "I was looking for a hostel to stay in when I came to the city and found one near Majestic. Every night I observed vendors selling books on the platform. I used to assist them in selling the books for at least three months. I requested them to give me two bags of books to sell elsewhere," says Gowda, who later went on to sell books on the footpath in front of Higginbothams on MG Road in the early 2000 and in two years managed to open his first book store on Church Street. He started with a mere collection of 1,500 books, predominantly English ones, and now stands at selling nearly 2,500 books every day.

Moreover, Gowda did not inform his parents in Mysuru about his new-found passion for selling books. "I did not inform my parents about the hardships I faced when I came to Bengaluru. I told them about my passion for selling books only in 2002. My parents disapproved of the idea because they wanted me to secure a software job. But when I think about it now, I feel that a software job wouldn't have given me the same satisfaction as selling books does," says Gowda, who adds authors like Ramachandra Guha, Vivek Shanbagh, Anita Nair, Raghu Karnad frequent his book store.

According to Gowda, the first book he sold in Blossom's was How To Win Friends and Influence People by Dale Carnegie to one Jaishankar, who is his oldest customer. He also mentions that there was a serpentine queue at 1am during the release of the book, Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire by JK Rowling. The second to match the craze was only for Dan Brown's Da Vinci Code, The Lost Symbol.

With Covid-19, Gowda is now using the delivery platforms to send across books ordered by customers. With a small footfall these days, Gowda has also amplified his website through which he is generating enough book orders. "Walking down the streets of MG Road and Brigade Road always takes me back to my early days of selling books on the footpath. I am very elated that even after 20 years, people still consider Blossom's to be the cultural landmark of Bengaluru. In fact, the name Blossom actually signifies my growth from a platform to a big book store," says the 47-year-old.

Fashion entrepreneurs Yamuna Nagaraj and Dhurva Kumar speak to CE about their label, a one-stop shop for all things bridal

EXPRESS FEATURES

GETTING that perfect D-day look can involve a huge amount of effort. From the perfect wedding couture to the perfect colour of the trousseau, and the months of preparation ...all of this can be a daunting task. To make things seamless, fashion entrepreneurs Yamuna Nagaraj and Dhruva Kumar are curating bridal collections from different designers across India, which could be the one-stop destination for anything to do with weddings.

The collection is carefully curated to highlight the works of numerous designers like Ayushi Bhasin, Kalki, Siddharth Bansal, Shilpi Ahuja, Salil Bhatia, and Anusha Santhosh. "All the wedding wear has been crafted keeping in mind extreme attention to detail. The collection has a lot of zardosi and gotta work," says Nagaraj, adding that they also focused on moving away from regular designs. "While we all have shades of red, and we understand its significance in weddings, we have an entire collection in pinks and pastels which is a trend in every season," she says, adding that these colours go well for costumes for bridesmaids and groomsmen as well.

Why just a wedding collection... one might ask. To which Nagaraj, who originally hails from Mysuru, says that this is one particular occasion which needs multiple costumes. "Weddings are like a movie with different events, the mehandi, sangeet, reception, the main wedding itself, for which people want to look their best," says Nagaraj.

Adding to this, Kumar says, "A lot of people want to go for A-lister designers but due to the pandemic, it's become hard. So we have everything under one roof."

Kumar has experience in planning star weddings like Yash-Radhika, Shivarajkumar's daughter, Nirupama's, says weddings are mostly family affairs and styling is important not just for the bride and groom but for other close members as well.

The website of their label Yamuna and Dhruva, which also has a third partner, Anusha Santosh, is going to be out in the first week of February, while their flagship store is going to open in April, in Sadashivnagar and HSR Layout. "There are times when designers have great designs but struggle for a platform. I wanted to create one where they will get noticed," says Nagaraj, while doing a telephonic call from the US, where she has been residing for the past 25 years.

Kannada singer and rapper Alok, aka All ok, released his latest single Yaakinge 2 recently, which has gone viral with 2.5 million views

IT'S A RAP

EXPRESS FEATURES

There are many times we have felt things have not gone our way and things have been unfair to us. And there is always the question, "Why me?". Kannada singer and rapper Alok, aka All ok's latest single Yaakinge 2 is based on this question. The single which was released five days ago has gone viral with 2.5 million views.

According to the singer, the song is a funny take on other common phrases we use when things go wrong. "When things don't go our way, we have this tendency to ask, "God, why me?". It's a rhetorical question but irrespective of the language we speak, this question somehow manages to slip in," laughs Alok.

Written and composed by him, the song is a sequel to his first song which released two years ago. "This is the third year of the pandemic and we have seen so many losses. The pandemic has caused havoc, so I thought this was the right question to ask," says Alok, who is currently in quarantine. The song also has a mention about the loss of actors, Puneeth Rajkumar, Chiranjeevi Sarja and Sanchari Vijay.

The song, which is shot in various parts of Goa and Bengaluru, features some locally-popular names like actor Arvind KP, Vaishnavi, Kripal Amanna to name a few. "It was fun collaborating with so many people. They bring their own energy to the song," adds Alok, who also introduces his two-and-a-half-month-old baby at the end of the song.

The singer-cum-rapper is popular for making viral videos, but dismisses it as being no rocket science. "I make songs for people. I rap about their likes and try to connect with them. That's what probably works," he says.

FIT BIT

CRISS-CROSS SHOULDER STRETCH

This is a prone pose which is done lying flat on the belly with the primary focus on stretching the shoulders (trapezius muscles) with the crossing of the arms in front, which works with all the muscles of shoulders and its girdle. It is a good practice to open the back of the lungs. This requires a conscious effort to watch for the shoulder blades to move away from each other, which move away from the ears. It is a deep upper back opener and is a static practice, which is mostly included in restorative yoga to help release the tensions stored at the neck and shoulders.

STEPS
- Lie on your belly. Spread the legs apart and interlock the elbows when placing the forehead on the arms to rest in Makarasana. Taking a few breaths, relax.
- Inhaling, raise the chest and head while supporting the body with arms and elbows, while bringing the legs close to each other.
- Inhale and bring the left arm towards the right side of your mat pushing it from the shoulders.
- Inhaling, bring the right arm in front of the left arm bringing the elbows close to each other and in alignment with chin and chest on the floor. The fingers of both the hands must pointing towards the opposite side.
- Here the shoulder blades are wide apart. Feel the squeeze in the top and front part of the shoulders.
- Inhale and as you exhale bring the face close to the floor in front of the interlocked upper arm, stretch the neck and chest, comfortably.
- Place the arms stretched out in opposite directions, making alignment perfect. Don't tilt towards one particular side.
- Remain here trying to touch the forehead on the floor, and with every exhalation, slowly push the arms out and go forward with the neck and the face.
- While inhaling, raise the head up and slowly release the arms, coming to rest in Makarasana. Take a few breaths here.
- Relax and repeat going deeper this time and watch the stretch.

BENEFITS
- Helps flex the arms easily and make posture comfortable.
- Releases muscle stiffness.
- Increases mobility in the shoulder joints.
- Relieves tension and pain, caused by 'tension knots'.
- Reduces the soreness after an intensive upper body workout.
- It can be practised after intense arm balance yoga sequence.

LIMITATIONS
- Those with shoulder, rib cage, collar bone, or neck injury, abdominal, hernia and heart surgeries should avoid this.
- Pregnant women should not perform this asana.
- Yoga teachers should constantly guide their students by reminding them to breathe deep and slow.

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

Good morning Bangalore

I'm rather confused with the wave that is sweeping over our city. Somehow the fact that the Omicron is 'just like a cold' has swept the narrative of this city. More than 80 per cent of the population has a very cavalier attitude of 'it is what it is'. The senior citizens are (rightfully) petrified because those who are afflicted are having a really bad time coping with their sickness. This includes the middle-aged and people with comorbidities. Harried doctors are trying to placate them by treating the symptoms, and I have known of people having a 'cocktail' (I kid you not, this is what it is called!) of drugs costing a king's ransom. Apparently, this medicine too is been found to be quite ineffective (along with the slew of medicines given during the second wave)! Sometimes I'm inclined to believe the conspiracy theorists who claim the pharma companies are out to make their pound of flesh by selling us nonsense and convincing us by talking balderdash!

Unfortunately, the reckless head of state of a country where the 'sun never sets' is winning fans amongst the young and the restless. They are even going as far as to say 'the only way we can beat the virus is by going about our business as before, mask-less, reckless, and fearless'. Impatience is not the answer. This virus has forced some of us to look at the bigger picture of being a 'we' rather than 'just me'. But then again, everyone has their own limits and let's face it, nothing is the way it used to be for a long time now.

I am all 'boostered' and vaccinated and yet not totally safe. But then again, what is safe and what isn't? I know that many of my friends living abroad have lost their parents and many have been unable to come down to perform their last rights. Strangers have filled in for family members that have been missing. There is a certain desperation when looks into the eyes of people. The younger ones are disenchanted, even desperate. I have sometimes caught a look in their eyes which screams, 'Why must I be kept a prisoner because you older people are vulnerable'? I too wonder why? Have we been on this planet long enough? I never looked at myself as either redundant or passé. I am still an agile-minded contributor, then why am not strong enough or swift enough to withstand 'this'.

Sometimes I think the Darwin-esque theory is right. The survival must be of the fittest. The youngsters (school and college going children) don't say it but feel it. Why must the older generation survive at their expense? Why must they be cooped up at home, not go to school and college, dance, sing and make love? They have an agenda that says, 'It's better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all' and perhaps they are right.

Perhaps it's not the meek that shall inherit the earth. Perhaps everyone over 50 has lived too long. Perhaps it's time to make and give space.

My favourite nephew is getting married. His celebrations have the minimum number of people attending. The bride's wide eyes are clouded over with disappointment. Many guests have opted out. I too am in two minds whether to attend or not. Going out, meeting people and attending functions is a calculated risk. I am saving myself for an emergency.

My sister asked me why I was so afraid of dying and I had no answer. Perhaps I'm not afraid of dying as much as I am afraid of languishing as a sick person. It has come to this. There will be an infection but no death or hospitalisation. You will live, but nobody can say how. Perhaps next week will be better. As they say in Spanish, quizás!

This Veganuary, going vegan in the month of January, is seeing many city-based brands partnering with the international movement

Clean clan

ANILA KURIAN

PLANT-based, dairy-free diets are the go-to fad in recent times. And Bengalureans are increasingly showing an interest in trying new items in the market or learning more about the lifestyle. International movement Veganuary (going vegan in January) is seeing many brands in the city tying up with the organisation to give this diet a one-month try.

Shweta Thakur, co-founder of Wildermart, an online grocery store that offers clean and sustainable products, says, "Most of the questions people have before turning vegan is about what they should eat or where can one find items. Tying up with Veganuary was to help those people find everything they want to know about this lifestyle." As part of their social media campaign, the brand is also working with nutritionists and chefs who share recipes that one can try at home. "As a grocery store, we have a tie-up with restaurants to provide the products but we wanted to explore more in that department. Perhaps that will take a bit longer now that things aren't looking so good in terms of the pandemic. However, it's great to see the approach Bengalureans are showing towards vegan food, whether it's to try the substitutes or figure out which works out well for them," she adds.

Santé Spa Cuisine in Indiranagar has put together a Veganuary party platter that offers items like tomato salsa, basil pesto, beetroot hummus, sun-dried tomato pate, vegan loaf, khakras and more. Co-founder Pallavii Gupta says, "We aren't here to preach veganism as we do offer dairy products at the restaurant. We believe in a plant-based lifestyle and that's the kind of approach we are taking towards this as well. We understand that there are people who want to turn vegan but find it hard to give up on some of their favourite dairy products. We offer those alternates if they want to try."

The response to their Veganuary menu has been good with takeaway orders showing promise. "There's definitely been significant growth that we have seen since the pandemic hit but there's a lot more to go as well. At least more people are talking and understanding more about plant-based diets," says Gupta.

Carrots Restaurant in Koramangala is known to be one of the oldest vegan places in the city. While they always participate in an overall vegan movement, this time, owner Ram Khatiwada feels it hasn't hit the spot. The team had created a vegan pizza menu which Khatiwada says has seen absolutely no takers. "We haven't had a single order for this menu so far and it's been on since the beginning of January. I feel a restaurant that's completely vegan doesn't get the recognition as compared to places that also offer other food items like meat or plant-based products," he says, adding, "We've been doing something for Veganuary since the beginning but it has never given the results we hoped for. There are more vegans in the city but they still prefer to choose places that have more than just vegan items."

M for Margarita

One of the most popular cocktails is the margarita, which is renowned worldwide. This classic cocktail typically consists of tequila, orange liqueur and fresh lime juice, often served in a glass with salt on the rim. The origin of the cocktail is not known; many stories abound. Obviously, all originate in and around Mexico and Texas since Tequila is the primary ingredient.

Margaritas are mostly shaken and served either straight up in the margarita glass or over the ice in an old-fashioned glass. They may also be blended with ice and served frozen. It's quite an easy drink to make and here are some recipes beginning with the Classic and followed by some of my favourite variations. Be bold and experiment with your own concoctions as Tequila lends itself well to different flavours. In all recipes, pour all the ingredients in a cocktail shaker, fill with ice cubes, shake it well and strain into the glass.

Classic Margarita

Ingredients:

- Tequila 50 ml
- Orange Liqueur 20 ml
- Fresh Lime Juice 20 ml
- Garnish with a green lime wheel

Raw Mango Margarita

Ingredients:

- Tequila 60 ml
